VET SLAIN, POLICE LIEUTENANT, YOUTH WOUNDED IN 2 SHOOTINGS

Boys Try To Escape Police

Bullet Halts Juveniles

An 18-year-old Johns avenue youth was shot and wounded at 3 a. m. today as he and a 17-year-old Johns avenue companion attempted to flee from police on Library court. Officers gave chase after they discovered the youths tampering with a parked car at the Dickson market on North Walnut street.

Thomas H. Strickland, 549 Johns avenue, was wounded. His companion, Willie Ray Chaffin, 17, of 508 Johns avenue, was apprehended at his home later on information given police by Patrolman Don L. Freehafer who stopped the fleeing youth a block from the Public library to ask his name and address.

Both boys concluded a year's probation from juvenile court last summer.

Strickland, who was reported in fair condition at General hospital today, was brought down by one shot in his back. It was not known whether pursuing officers Charles A. Condon or Marion L. Hardesty hit the youth since both patrolmen said they fired at the same time.

Officers said one bullet fired at the fleeing Strickland went astray and broke a window in the Public library.

Officers Condon and Hardesty said they saw the boys tampering with a parked car in front of the market while on routine patrol. As they stopped the police cruiser to inquire, the youths ran south on Walnut street and then cut west on Library court. Strickland was shot as he circled around the Public library and started running on West Third street.

YOUTH HALTS

Chaffin, who continued running, was stopped by Patrolman Freehafer who asked the youth's name and address and released the boy. The youth was picked up later at his home on description given by Officers Condon and Hardesty. Chaffin is being held at city jail pending investigation.

Police said the car the youths were tampering with was owned by Eugene Storck, 580 Russell road. Storck, who said he parked the car on North Walnut at 9:30 a. m., returned a few minutes after the chase. Storck said he had taken the car keys with him but had not locked the car doors.

Pliers, screwdrivers and other tools were found on Strickland and Chaffin, police said.

According to juvenile court records, both youths were convicted of stealing $46 from the W. B. Linn confectionery, 114 Blymyer avenue, on April 10, 1947. Both were given suspended sentences at Boys' Industrial school and were put on probation for one year with the stipulation that they would stay away from each other.

Chaffin first came to the attention of the court on Dec. 22, 1945, when he was found to be an accessory in the theft of a gun. He was placed on probation for one year at that time.

2 Planes Collide; 12 Feared Killed

COVENTRY, England — (AP) — A twin-engined Dakota and a small plane collided over Coventry today. Deputy Fire Chief S. J. Bossonade said at least 12 persons were killed, including one man tentatively identified as an American.

Bossonade said he believed the Dakota was operated by British European airways.

'Heavens, No!' Says M'Gregor

Rep. J. Harry McGregor this morning laughed at published reports which said he had urged tearing down the White House and building a new one.

By telephone from Washington, McGregor said:

"Heavens, no! I took no position whatever in the matter. A group of us were called to the President's office to discuss his recommendations for renovation of the White House and I merely made inquiry to find out Mr. Truman's position on the proposal."

The congressman, who represents Richland county and the 17th Congressional district, said that during the conversation he pointed out that the President's request for $5,400,000 to renovate the White House will probably be "just a starter."

Architects and engineers actually have no idea how much the final renovating job would cost, McGregor said.

WALLS CRACKING

He added that cursory examination has revealed there is no foundation under the existing walls and that there are large cracks throughout the building.

During the White House conference, McGregor explained that a new structure, exactly duplicating the present one and using present paneling and other decorative features, could be built for approximately $3,000,000, instead of the $5,400,000 already sought.

He asked Mr. Truman what he thought of this idea.

The President replied that he wanted to retain the present structure whatever the cost.

"I was merely asking his views, and not advocating the replica plan," McGregor explained.

McGregor is the ranking minority member of the House public building committee. He said that next Tuesday he and other members of the House and Senate committees will "put on our overalls" and inspect the White House.

"We already know," he said, "that temporary repairs are out of the question. There are five heating units in the building."

Decides He Won't Make Pig of Self

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(INS)—A 23-year-old University of Michigan student today backed out of a contest to prove he could "make a pig of himself."

Engineering student Paul H. Smith was scheduled to take on "Broadview Perfect Lad," a hog, today in an eating contest that had the whole campus betting on the outcome. But Smith decided at the last minute that he didn't want "unfavorable publicity" for the university or his fraternity.

He denied university officials had objected to the contest (one of them was quoted earlier as saying "there is no law against a student making either an ass or a hog of himself.") Smith admitted, however, that some of his Alpha Tau Omega fraternity brothers advised him against going through with the plan.

Students organized the man-hog gorging contest after a professor belittled the achievement of a student who gulped over 60 oysters.

The professor sniffed:

"Any hog can eat more than that."

Odds on today's cancelled contest were about even with both Smith and "Perfect Lad" weighing in at 165 pounds.

Tiro Bank Bandit Captured

Admits Theft, Accomplice Held

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation this morning closed in on Elmer Eugene Chronister at the home of his wife in Euclid and arrested him for robbing the Tiro Farmers and Citizens National bank at gunpoint last July 27.

Chronister, a former Mansfielder, offered no resistance. He readily admitted the robbery and theft of a getaway car.

The FBI is holding him for violation of the federal bank robbery statutes, according to R. J. Abbaticchio, special agent in charge of the Cleveland FBI office who released details of the capture.

The hunt for Chronister began at 1:30 p. m. on the day of the robbery.

Entering the bank with an accomplice, who is also under arrest by the FBI on other charges but whose name was not revealed, Chronister is alleged to have told the cashier, Mrs. Edith McNutt:

"This is a stick-up!"

At gunpoint, Mrs. McNutt was forced to turn over $2,300 from the bank vault. The robbers missed another $3,000 in the teller's till.

MONEY GONE

(When arrested this morning, Chronister had just 85 cents.)

The bandit pair made a getaway from the bank in a car stolen at Shelby the same day from Frank Allen, Chronister has admitted according to Abbaticchio.

Later the car was abandoned: It was discovered at 6:15 p. m.

Bookies Hit In Florida

Governor Calls For Crackdown

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—(UP)—Illegal bookmaking, a multimillion dollar business in this state, faced a crackdown today when Gov. Fuller Warren ordered county law offices to arrest all bookies.

Gov. Warren declared that bookie operations result in the "stealing of state taxes."

Florida levies an 8% tax on legal betting at its 17 horse and dog racing tracks. Pari-mutuel handles have fallen off at all tracks despite the largest mid-season tourist rush in the history of the state.

Last year the state drew $13,531,680.90 in racing revenue. The state's share so far this season has been $5,889,534.39, a 6.88% drop from the comparable period last year.

Warren said 300 "bookie joints" are operating in one county alone, obviously Dade county, where Miami and Miami Beach are located. Hialeah race track now in operation there reports its attendance up over last season but its betting down about 5%.

"The state of Florida is faced with a near financial crisis," Warren said, referring to budget demands $100,000,000 above anticipated revenues for the next two years.

"The state loses $8 on every $100 illegally bet with bookies," he said.

"If bookies are allowed to continue to swindle the state of racing taxes, all citizens may be burdened with additional taxes." Racing revenue is divided among the state's 67 counties and old-age assistance."

They Knew the Man Was Dead

Shooting Tragedy Saddens Silent Crowd

By MARGUERITE MILLER

Grim faces watched in front of 321 East Fourth street last night.

A member of Mansfield's police force had been shot—a man hired to protect the law and order of the community.

A crowd of some 50 persons stood almost motionless in front of the home where the blood stains left by Lt. William J. Taylor were still fresh on the porch floor.

There was none of the usual surging and chatting of a crowd. Men stood with hands in their pockets. Even children were quiet. Women, with shawls around their shoulders, watched from porches across the street.

Many of the spectators had been there when the shooting started. Some had seen the tall, navy veteran police officer stumble to the porch, bleeding and gasping from bullet wounds in his stomach.

It was more like a death watch. And it was in a sense. Finefrock funeral home attendants carried in a stretcher for the man who had shot Lt. Taylor. In a few minutes the stretcher was carried back out—a blanket covering the figure on it. The crowd knew the man was dead.

No faces were grimmer than those of the co-workers of Lt. Taylor who kept arriving at the scene. Lt. Taylor is a popular fellow on the force and he had been badly hurt. Traffic moved past the scene quietly and slowly, directed by State Highway Patrolman J. G. Kark.

Final Pact Talks Near

Progress Called 'Encouraging'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson was reported about ready today for final talks on the proposed North Atlantic alliance, after an "encouraging" session with the Senate foreign relations committee.

The "encouraging" label came from Senator Lodge (R-Mass), one of the committee members who spent three hours with Acheson behind closed doors yesterday, suggesting ways to get around a delicate spot in the treaty's wording.

The secretary may lay representatives of western European countries and Canada next week a proposed agreement expected to offer a promise that the United States will take measures to help maintain the security of the North Atlantic area.

Asiatic Espionage Reports Unverified

Army Admits 'Faux Pas' On Spy Story

WASHINGTON— (UP) —The Army agreed today that it made a "public relations faux pas" in issuing its report on prewar communist espionage in China and Japan.

Col. George S. Eyster, deputy chief of the Army's public information division, told newsmen that the Army should have noted that the report was based on unsubstantiated information from Japanese police files and did not represent U. S. government policies.

He said the Army had no proof to back up the report's charge that American writer Agnes Smedley actively spied for the Russians in the Far East in the days before Pearl Harbor.

Eyster said the report should have been edited more carefully. He said he know of no plan to punish anyone for making the error, but he said he is "certainly going to make awfully sure" that such a mistake doesn't happen again.

The report was issued last week. It said that there were two communist spy rings operating in the Far East before the war—one in China and one in Japan. It said that Miss Smedley, a well-known writer on the Far East, was a member of the Chinese ring.

The report warned that the operations of these rings are "a clear warning for today and the future." It said that these Far Eastern spies very likely are "secretly busy with their trade at this very moment in the capitals of the world," and it raised the possibility some may even be at work in America.

In New York, Miss Smedley promptly called the charges "a despicable lie."

Eyster said the report certainly "should not have been given out with the philosophy it contained that Americans might well look askance at their neighbors."

Lt. Taylor Shot Twice In Abdomen

By SHELDON BINN

A gun-crazed war veteran, Robert Dilgard, 32, died under a hail of bullets from the gun of Patrolman Carl F. Berry Friday afternoon after the berserk man seriously wounded Police Lt. William J. Taylor.

Lt. Taylor, 39, was reported in "fair" condition at General hospital today. He was shot by Dilgard with a .22 caliber pistol during a hand to hand struggle in the living room of Dilgard's home at 321 East Fourth street, about 5:20 p. m.

Dilgard was shot five times by Patrolman Berry after the wounded Lt. Taylor broke away from Dilgard, clutched his side and said, "I'm hit." Taylor was struck twice in the abdomen.

Berry said Dilgard lay on the floor and raised his gun to shoot him. Berry drew his police .38 and pumped five bullets into Dilgard.

Lt. Taylor and Patrolman C. E. Beard went to the Dilgard home after receiving a call from Lawrence Smith, 324 East Fourth street, who reported a man in the street firing a gun.

Smith said Dilgard came out of his house and started waving a gun in the air, firing shots in all directions. Before the officers arrived on the scene, Dilgard returned to his house, going up to the second floor.

Lt. Taylor and Beard entered the house, followed a short time later by Berry, who arrived in another cruiser. Dilgard refused to come out of his room, so Lt. Taylor sent Beard back to police headquarters to get a tear gas gun.

Meanwhile Dilgard, standing on the second floor threatened to kill the police officer if they came up after him.

His mother intervened and started up the stairs to calm her son, but he threatened to kill her also if she came any farther. She retreated on orders from the police.

Then, according to Berry, Lt. Taylor attempted to persuade Dilgard to come down the stairs and surrender the gun.

Dilgard, gun in hand, started slowly down the stairs, and as he reached the bottom, Lt. Taylor grabbed him in an attempt to get his gun.

"They started to wrestle," Berry reported, "and several shots were fired. One went into the ceiling and at least two hit the lieutenant."

Berry said he believed Lt. Taylor was able to draw his gun during the struggle and hit Dilgard at least once.

GRABBED AT GUN

"I grabbed Dilgard's hand which held the gun, but he pulled it away," Berry said.

"The next thing I remember, Lt. Taylor was over on the other side of the room, holding his side and saying he was hit."

Dilgard, who was lying on the floor, raised his target pistol and aimed it at Berry, who fired five times, killing Dilgard instantly with chest and abdomen wounds.

Lt. Taylor staggered out to the front porch, holding his side, his

Gem Burglar Denied Bail

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—(AP)—Tall, suave Gerard G. Dennis, described by authorities as one of the greatest jewelry burglars on record is said to have admitted Hollywood notables were his next intended victims.

The 28-year-old Canadian is suspected of looting wealthy homes in the west and in Canada of $600,000 in jewels and furs.

He was arraigned here yesterday on charges of first-degree burglary and felonious assault, and held without bail for grand jury action.

TRAIN CRASH KILLS 26

PORT D'ATELIER, France—(UP) — Police said today that 26 persons were killed and more than 150 injured in a head-on collision between the Nancy-Dijon passenger express and a single locomotive here last night.

Fog Forces Airlift Halt

FRANKFORT — (UP) — The Anglo-American airlift, which yesterday delivered its millionth ton to blockaded Berlin, was stopped dead today by fog.

Airports in Berlin were blanketed by the heaviest fog since November, 1946, and airfields on this western end of the air corridor also were closed by a thick mist which extended as far west as Hamburg.

There was no prospect that the weather might improve enough to begin flying again before this evening at the earliest, officials said.

At the same time, the officials revealed that every American plane flying on "Operation Vittles" is being equipped with its own radar set.

These "seeing eye" sets will enable the planes to pierce the worst weather when and if ground radar fails or is "jammed" by radio interference from any point.

Poor Man's True Wealth Is Wife With a Heart of 24 Karat Gold

ONCE UPON a time there was a man who learned how to make gold.

He was a poor bookkeeper, tired of poverty and weary of keeping other men's books.

"Why can't I learn to make gold?" he asked himself one day. "Man can do anything he sets his mind to. The Germans make butter from coal, we make bombs from atoms."

He didn't want to make enough gold to throw the world's money systems out of kilter. No, he intended to keep his discovery—when he made it—a secret. He just planned to turn out enough gold for his own modest needs. A million here, a million there.

So he went to a department store and bought himself a chemistry set. He wore out the seat of his pants at the public library reading volumes on alchemy and the transmutation of metals. Finally he decided that the easiest thing to turn into gold was quicksilver.

"All I have to do is find a way to make it jell and turn yellow," he said.

He set up a laboratory in his basement and went to work. Evening after evening he labored there alone past midnight. Feverishly he stewed up stinking messes of chemicals until his home smelled like a glue factory. Into each batch he hopefully poured a little quicksilver—with no result.

His quest became a mania. He quit his job after the 3,001st unsuccessful experiment. After that he stayed in the basement night and day. He grew thin and haggard.

One morning his wife came into the laboratory as he was about to begin his 5,999th experiment. He was out of fancy chemicals and had only kitchen ingredients left.

He poured rhe last of his quicksilver into a mortar. He put in a pinch of salt and a spoonful of baking soda. Idly he stirred this batch with his finger. Then his wife said quietly:

"There isn't a penny left in the baby's bank, dear. There isn't a scrap of food in the house, and I know you are hungry."

The tears brimmed into her eyes. The man looked up and said:

"Why, Honey, you're crying."

He reached over with his blackened finger to wipe a tear from her cheek. As he touched it the tear turned to a bright hard yellow.

"Gold!" screamed the man. "Gold at last!"

He ran next door and borrowed an onion. He peeled it and held it up to his wife's eyes.

"Cry," he said. "Cry some more! I hate to do this, Honey, but maybe it is tears of pain that make gold. I have to know."

The pain tears came. He let the small globules of his wife's agony fall into mortar. Nothing. It was the mixture as before.

The man gave a mighty oath of despair. He picked up the mortar and crashed it down on the stone table, smashing it to fragments. And then he ran upstairs.

The loyal wife watched him go, and pity for him replaced her pain. She bent over the table and wept for him alone—the husband she loved.

And as they fell into the spilled mixture, drop by drop, the tears turned to the color of the morning sun—the pure bright gold of compassion.

Moral: A wife with a 24-karat heart is the poor man's true wealth.

Killer Stabs Woman After Hotel Tryst

Man Escapes From Bellboy

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The partly clad body of a woman was found slashed to death early today in a blood-spattered room of the Waldo hotel, a hostelry at 322 N. High street.

A bell boy reported he pursued a man, who fled from her room, but he gave up the chase after the man threatened him.

The unidentified woman, between 30 and 40 years of age registered at 2:30 a. m. with a man. He wrote "Mr. and Mrs. A. Warren" on the register.

Night Manager James Mullins said both appeared to be intoxicated.

Coleman Merchant, the bell boy, reported he discovered the slaying at 5:30 a. m. when a man ran from the room.

The woman, clad only in brassiere and underslip, had been stabbed several times in the neck and throat; twice in the left side, and twice between the breasts.

On the bed with the body was a wedding ring.

Coroner Robert A. Evans described her as "homely," five feet four inches tall, weighing about 120 pounds, and having greyish brown hair.

The bed, window sill and curtains were spattered with blood.

The bell boy said the man he pursued from the room, No. 608, had a 12 hour growth of beard; was 45 to 50 years old, five feet six inches tall, weighed 150 pounds, and wore a blue navy jacket and blood-stained shirt.

The slaying recalled to police the unsolved death of Mona McBride, who was found slashed to death in the Ohio hotel, next door to the Waldo, last March 31.

Miss McBride, too, had registered with a man, and they had been drinking.

Scouts Stage First Dance

Mansfield Senior Girl Scouts staged their first dance in successful style last night at the Grotto hall.

Approximately 35 couples danced to the music of Dick Butts' orchestra. Red and white streamers, huge red hearts, pasteboard cupids and colorful balloons decorted the big hall.

During intermission an exhibition dance was held by courtesy of the Arthur Murray Dance studio and punch and sandwiches were served.

Chairman of the dance was Mary Alice Biddle. Her committee chairmen were Lanny Carr, decorations; Pat Smith, refreshments; Evelyn Goon, invitations; Marilyn Klee, finance, and Carolyn McGinty, program.

Mrs. Charles Orr supervised the dance and troop leaders served as chaperones.

Still Seeks Mayor Post

Canaday Pushes Bid In Court

POMEROY—(UP)—Delmar A. Canady will go before Common Pleas Judge Edgar Ervin next week in his fight to regain the job of mayor of this village.

Village officials late yesterday filed an answer to Canady's action asking the court to set aside a restraining order obtained by Acting Mayor Sidney Spencer.

The village, in its answer, said it was not testing the legality of the title to office but that the order restraining Canady from taking over the mayor's post by force was asked to protect Spencer against interference from Canady until title to the office is determined.

Canady was removed from office last November by the then Governor Thomas J. Herbert on charges of misconduct in office.

He resigned the office Nov. 29, but claimed later the resignation was not legal because he resigned while under suspension.

Cows Invade City Airport

Two cows—which weren't interested in flying—but in soy beans and grass, wandered onto the north side of the Mansfield airport about 3 p. m. yesterday.

Thomas A. Ansel, manager of TWA here, called the sheriff's office and later contacted the owner of the two stray bovines. The farmer and his two sons, who live two miles north of the airport, arrived and led the stray animals homeward about 6:30 p. m.

Ansel said the cows stayed at the north side of the airport, near his home. Appearance of the bovines came as quite a surprise, but there was no danger "in any way, shape or form," Ansel said. The cows stuck to their grazing and were not sufficiently curious to wander down towards the runways.

The airport has a fence along the north side and Ansel surmised the break through which the strangers entered probably occured where workers are putting in the new section of State Route 13.

Widow Dies In Hospital

Mrs. Susan Muth, 88, widow of Henry Muth, died this morning at Madison hospital following several weeks illness.

Mrs. Muth, whose home was at 832 Forest drive, was born April 5, 1860 in Mansfield and spent her entire life in this vicinity. She was an active member of the St. Paul Lutheran church.

Surviving are three sons, Edward, William and Earl Muth; four daughters, Mrs. Malcolm Hardy, Mrs. Bertha Hamblin, Mrs. Lester Vaughn and Mrs. Foster Ost, all of Mansfield; two brothers, Dr. William Culp of Fort Wayne, Ind., and Atty. Frank Culp of Mansfield; one sister, Mrs. Mary Muth of Mansfield, R. D. 5; 15 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren. Mr. Muth died 16 years ago today.

The body is at the Wappner funeral home where services will be held Monday at 3 p. m. conducted by Rev. John G. Gensel. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

Burglars Break Into School Building

A piece of glass was broken out of a window on the north side of the building. In one of the upstairs rooms contents of the desks were littered about the floor.

Richland Promised New Game Warden

Richland county will have a game warden within six weeks, promised by H. A. "Buck" Rider, conservation commissioner of Ohio, after Mansfield delegates to the 41st annual League of Ohio Sportsmen convention leaped into the meeting last night with gripes that Richland county has been without a warden since last May.

Gus Miller, speaking for the Richland County Fish and Game Protective association, created quite a furor and gained a strong round of applause with his demands for a local game warden. His time on the floor was cut off by the forum moderator, Frank Atwood, but not until he had gained his point.

Dr. J. W. Ogden, of Hayesville, was among those honored at the "Old Timers' Banquet." Ogden was presented his hunting and fishing diploma by Charles L. Long, Canton wild life expert.

Richland county representatives were headed by Jim Burkhart, president of the Richland County Fish and Game Protective association. Others in the Mansfield group were Ed Sites, Thomas Blizzard, Lowell Hamilton, Gladys Tucker, and Mrs. Burkhart.

Due to the rise in hunting and fishing violations, convention spokesmen proposed that game licenses should be patterned after driving licenses, so that a violator of game regulations could have his license revoked.

This proposed licensing system would also require an examination for getting a license if the hunter had never had a license, or had allowed his old one to lapse.

Trucker Helps Save Trucker

William R. Myers, 106½ North Main street, today was credited by Oberlin police with saving the life of Peter Christoff, 31, of Norwalk, whose truck caught fire when it collided with one driven by Myers.

Myers was said to have leaped from his truck and dragged Christoff from his truck cab. Christoff had suffered a broken arm and facial cuts in the accident. Myers then pulled his truck away from the flaming vehicle.

Myers is the son of Mrs. B. B. Myers of the Main street address, and is employed driving trucks out of Toledo.

Grand Jury Requests Aid

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Gov. Frank J. Lausche may decide today on an Athens county grand jury request for special prosecution in the Eleanor Gifford murder case.

He was asked by the grand jury yesterday to assign the state attorney general or an assistant to act as special prosecutor in the case.

The governor said he was considering the matter and may give a decision today.

The body of the 52-year-old Episcopal church worker was found in the home near Athens Jan. 3. She had been beaten to death.

Two youths, Harry Dodds, jr. 20, of New Straitsville, and Pvt. Grover E. Rawlings, 18, of Ft. Knox, Ky., have been bound over to the grand jury in the case. A third man, a former Columbus bartender, inplicated in the slaying, is sought by authorities.

There was no immediate explanation as to why the grand jury had asked the governor to intervene in the case.

Man Jailed After Cutting

Melvin Swarn, 25, of 191 North Diamond street, who suffered a deep knife cut on the left side of his face last night, was held in city jail today for investigation when he refused to identify his assailant for officers.

Swarn was taken to General hospital at 12:18 a. m. today by Nick Kondes, Veterans cab driver. Police said Swarn had been drinking and that he swore he "would kill somebody" when he left the hospital. He was treated and taken to city jail.

Furloughing 2,521

BALTIMORE — (AP) — The Baltimore and Ohio railroad yesterday ordered a five-day furlough late this month for 2,521 of its shop employes throughout the system. A continued decline in freight business was given as the reason.

REMINDER OF HOME—

A former Mansfield man, I. E. McKeehen, now living in Harlingen, Tex., sends along a clipping telling of the coming dedication of "Port Mansfield" at Redfish Bay, Texas, which reminded him of his old home town and Mansfield's airport. Plans are being made to dedicate Port Mansfield on April 23 during the Willacy county onion fiesta. Gov. Beauford Jester and other important state and air officials are expected to be on hand for the ceremonies, according to the clipping, taken from the Valley Morning Star of Harlingen. McKeehen said he wasn't sure why the new port was named "Mansfield."

BACKED HIS ATHLETES—

He hadn't run away from home, police concluded today. He just wanted to root for the team. Last night police received a call that a 14-year-old Sturges avenue youth was missing from home. Police broadcast a description of the boy. This morning early, the boy came back home, tired and quite disappointed. He had ridden his "whizzer bike" to Massillon last night to see the Mansfield Tygers tangle with the Massillon Tigers. His team lost by one point. Final score of the game: 54-53, Massillon's favor.

Daytime Toll Leads January Traffic Report

If you were in a residential district in the daytime on any Monday in January you were more in danger of being involved in a traffic accident than in any similar period during the month.

Of the 154 accidents last month 30, the highest single day amount, occurred on Monday, 87 during the daytime, and 76 in residential districts.

Through Jan. 31, the report shows 17 persons were injured this year as against 14 last year in a total of 142 accidents for the same period.

K. of C. Burns Mortgage

Mortgage burning ceremonies will be held at 8 p.m. today at the Knights of Columbus home, Sherman avenue and Park avenue west.

It will mark the first anniversary in the new home, which members purchased Jan. 15, 1948 and into which they moved on Feb. 7, 1948.

Tonight at least 300 are expected to be present for the stag smoker and ceremonies, according to James F. Carrigan, grand knight of the lodge.

Following the mortgage burning, there will be refreshments and a social evening.

Warning Issued In Court

Clevelander Sent to Pen

Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch yesterday declared war on the increasing number of automobile thefts in Richland county as he sentenced Henry Robert Banks, 26, of Cleveland, to one to 20 years in the Ohio state penitentiary for operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

Judge Kalbfleisch said "there are too many auto theft cases in Richland county" and asserted he was going to crack down on prisoners who came into his court on theft charges.

Four other persons were given five-year probationary sentences when they appeared in common pleas court yesterday. Two indicted defendants on grand larceny charges pleaded not guilty and waived jury trial.

Banks recently completed a 32-month sentence in a federal prison for assault with a dangerous weapon and had a bad juvenile record in Georgia, according to Judge Kalbfleisch. He was indicted by the January grand jury for stealing a car owned by Garold West on Jan. 24.

Miles Marion Skaggs and Frank Skaggs, indicted for grand larceny, will be tried in March by a panel of three judges. Two judges will be appointed by the Ohio Supreme court to serve with Kalbfleisch on the panel.

Three persons charged with breaking and entering and a third with forgery were placed on probation for five years. The defendants who took property were ordered to make restitution.

Placed on probation after they pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering were Walter Leroy Phillips, 30, of 335 Cedar street, and Talmage Gene Mullins, 20, of Mifflin, and Earl Welo Bishop, 31, of 173 South Main street, for breaking and entering and carrying concealed weapons. Bernice Janet Currens, 31, of 81 Waring avenue, was cited on a forgery charge.

Credit Men Plan Panel

The north central Ohio division of the National Association of Credit Men will hold a credit panel at the Sky club, Monday at 6:30 p. m.

The round-table discission will be led by R. D. Hurl, of the Shelby Salesbook company; R. D. Mayer, of the Fixible company in Loudonville, and A. A. Doerrer, of the Dominion Electric corporation of Mansfield.

G. R. Cashell, vice president of the association, has invited all interested credit executives to attend the meeting. Those planning to attend have been asked to contact E. J. Osborne.

"Highlights of the 1948 World Series", a movie, will be shown after the meeting.

Brother of City Residents Dies

Word was received here of the death of Alex J. Hocquet, 62, in San Francisco, Calif., Friday after a brief illness.

Mr. Hocquet, brother of Edmund J. and Miss Elvera Hocquet, 132 Boughton avenue, was born in Belgium, June 3, 1886 and had lived in this country for 57 years. He was a librarian at the San Francisco public library.

The brother and sister are the only survivors.

The body will be taken to Point Marion, Pa., for funeral services and burial. Arrangements are in charge of the Finefrock funeral home.

175 Hear Galion Pastor At Methodist Father-Son Dinner

"Religion is an imperative, not an elective," declared Dr. Norman Summerville of Galion in an address last night at the annual Father and Son banquet of Central Methodist church.

In his talk entitled "Dreams, Occupations and Religion." Dr. Summerville stated that too many people now feel that religion is a matter of choice, being something they can accept or reject. Men's dreams of achievemnts and their work throughout life remain incomplete without religion, he contended.

Nearly 175 men and boys were present at the banquet, the largest of its kind on record at the church. It was given under sponsorship of Methodist Men, the name adopted this year for the men's organization previously called the Methodist Brotherhood.

At the close of the banquet, Virt A. Simpson, new president of Methodist Men, opened the program introducing new officers and committee chairmen, and outlining goals for the organization this year.

E. Ray Jenkins, program chairman, then took charge of the meeting. After a period devoted to singing and short talks, he introduced Dr. Summerville, the main speaker of the evening.

Arms Angle Disturbing Pact Makers

Treaty Shouldn't Be 'Military'

The trouble over the Atlantic Pact, which has been advertised to all the world first by the Scandinavian crisis and then by the discussion in the Senate, has been brewing for some months. The trouble can still be set right. But not by any new combination of words in the pact itself. For the trouble arises from a fundamentally false idea which the American negotiators, with the best of intentions but for lack of experience, accepted.

This was the idea that American military collaboration with Western Europe — a necessary and desirable thing — could be and had to be based on a treaty which would run a long time — for as many as sixteen to twenty years.

The idea is fundamentally false. It is not possible to write a treaty which will guarantee military collaboration over a long period of time. The United States cannot under the constitution do this.

No other country can in fact, whatever its constitutional theory, do it. Witness the British and French guarantees to Czechoslovakia before Munich, and their twenty-year treaties, signed during the war and still theoretically valid, with the Soviet Union.

Nor is it necessary to write such a treaty for the purpose of achieving military collaboration of the most intimate and effective kind as long as the situation calls for it. Witness our military collaboration with Canada, with Great Britain as a result of the famous Churchhill — Roosevelt arrangement about the destroyers and the bases, with Denmark about Greenland.

A STRONG CASE can be made for a pact which gives legal recognition to the Atlantic Community. A strong case can be made for military aid and special collaboration with Britain, France, and Benelux. But to attempt to fit them together was to drive a square peg into a round hole. It was bound to produce one grave crisis after another.

It has already done serious, perhaps irreparable, damage in Scandinavia. It has now, because the Senators were compelled to state the self-evident but forgotten truth, brought about a severe crisis of confidence in Western Europe. If the underlying idea of treating the pact as the contract of a military coalition is not reconsidered, a destructive debate will be provoked both here and abroad.

The right course is in principle quite clear, and should avoid many otherwise insuperable practical difficulties.

The Atlantic Pact should be divorced entirely from the forthcoming bill to provide military aid. That is to say, adherence to the pact should not be a condition for receiving military aid. Nor should it be deemed a pledge that military aid, over and above that to which all victims of aggression are entitled under the charter, will be given to those who sign, and by implication denied to those who do not sign or are not invited.

The pact, in other words, should not be treated as a military alliance. I say this as a firm believer in the need for close military collaboration between North American and Western Europe. That collaboration should be founded, however, not on the Atlantic Pact but upon concrete military accords similar to those made by E. C. A.) under a military aid bill. Within the American constitutional system that is entirely feasible. It has been done many times before. It can be done again. That is the way to make arrangements for the supply of arms, the use of bases and facilities, the co-ordination of strategical and tactical plans.

Vets Learn Milk Testing Bookkeeping In VA Course

By BILL RUGGLES

Richland county veterans enrolled in the Veterans' Administration institutional on-farm training program are learning milk testing, to a modified form of bookkeeping in their course in general farming.

There are 100 veterans in Richland county taking this training through the local schools at Shelby, Shiloh, Lucas and Union.

Milk testing is invaluable to the farmer in determining which of his cows are producing high quality milk and which ones are not. This process is a complicated procedure involving chemistry and physics.

A specific amount of milk is placed in a bottle with an amount of sulphuric acid and then the bottle and contents are placed in a centrifuge and spun to separate the skim milk from the cream or butterfat.

The centrifuge, in separating these two parts of whole milk by its high speed rotation, does in a few minutes what takes place in your milk bottle when it stands over night in the icebox and you find the cream on top in the morning.

Besides milk testing, the veteran agrarians learn modern simplifid bookkeeping and accounting so they know what part of their farm operation is making a profit, and which crop or cattle enterprise is losing money.

The college of agriculture at Ohio State university gives the program a helping hand by chemically analyzing the soil from the vets' individual farms. The farm "students," assisted by the local instructor of the class can then determine what fertilizers the fields need in order to produce the highest yielding crop returns.

R. G. Zimmerman, training officer in the 10-county district, said "The on-farm training program is designed to teach the veteran farmer all the general farm practices that he should know, and up-to-the-minute scientific data that he would otherwise only learn in some agricultural college."

Instructors, text books, and all other facilities for the teaching of this course are provided by the local school boards which contract with the Veterans' Administration to provide this course at a specified amount per pupil per month.

These contracts have run out in some schools in this area and in the case of the Jeromesville class in Ashland county, the school board has not received payment to provide the instruction since July and August, 1948.

Superintendent of Schools at Jeromesville met with VA officials of the contract division from Cleveland yesterday, to learn when the new contract would be approved by the VA administrator in Washington.

The school's contract had been sent to Washington the first of this week. Negotiations have been going on for the renewal of the contract since last summer, but due to six copies (seven in some instances) having to be made of every contract and other governmental "red tape" technicalities, the school may be forced to dip into its own funds to continue the class.

Contracts for the continuance of the classes at Shelby and Shiloh ran out Dec. 31, 1948. VA officials said they believe the Shelby and Shiloh contracts will be renewed before the school boards are faced with a problem such as exists now at Jeromesville.

WELDING TOO—Veterans learn welding as a part of the VA's on-farm training program, which includes the latest scientific farm procedures as well as machine shop training. Carl Ehret is shown using the arc welding equipment of the VA farm class at Shiloh.

Lt. Taylor's service with the police department total's six and one half years. During World War II he served in the Navy, participating in several island invasions.

He is married and is the father of one daughter. He lives at 160 Parkwood boulevard.

Police said they had arrested Dilgard on several occasions.

SERVED OSR TERM

In 1938 he was sentenced to the Ohio State reformatory on two counts of breaking and entering in Ashland county. He was sentenced to one-to-seven and one-to-15 years on the two charges, but the sentence was suspended.

He was convicted in Mansfield municipal court on intoxication charges in 1947 and 1948 and was committed to county jail for 13 days on Jan. 13, of this year, when unable to pay a fine of $25 and costs for intoxication.

Police knew that he had recently purchased a gun and that he was difficult to handle, they said.

In the house at the time of the battle were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dilgard, Dilgard's parents. Mrs. Dilgard said her son and husband had been arguing prior to the affair. Dilgard told police that his son had been drinking before the shooting. Police said, however, they did not believe Dilgard was drunk.

Funeral services for Dilgard will be held Monday at 1 p. m. at the Finefrock funeral home with Rev. John G. Gensel, of St. Paul's Lutheran church officiating. Burial will be in Jeromesville cemetery.

Born in Ashland county, Aug. 8, 1916, he was a resident of Mansfield for the last 11 years. He was a former employe of the Ohio Brass company and was a veteran of World War II.

Surviving, in addition to his parents, are two sisters, Mrs. William Craig and Mary Dilgard; and two brothers, Raymond and Walter, all of Mansfield.

New Store Gets Lease

Mansfield's business district is to have a new addition this spring.

Louis A. Madison, president of Madison's, which operates women's specialty stores in Columbus, Akron and Lima, announced today he has leased the storeroom at 86 N. Main street formerly occupied by the Vogue shop.

Madison said the store room will be completely remodeled and the new Madison shop will be opened before Easter. The remodeling, new fixtures and renovating program, which is under way today, will represent an expenditure of $40,000 to $50,000, Madison said. The improvements in the store will include installation of air conditioning.

Madison added the new store will handle a complete line of young women's and women's ready-to-wear clothes, including dresses, suits, coats and also complete lines of accessories.

The FBI said Chronister has admitted holding the gun during the robbery. He told the agents he had spent all the money and that he had disposed of the pistol.

According to the FBI, Chronister has a long record of petty crime and had served time in San Diego for theft and desertion from the Marine corps. His profession was listed as cook.

If convicted, Chronister faces a possible fine of $5,000 and or 20 years in a federal penitentiary or both.

Abbatisschio said the FBI was aid in ite investigation by Marshal Robert Meiser of Tiro.

Men's Club Headed By Edward Quinn

Edward W. Quinn has been elected president of the Men's club of the First Presbyterian church, succeeding John R. Crabbe, who moved from the city.

Crabbe, head of Woolworth's here, was transferred to Covington, Ky. The names of Clifford B. Smith and Chester N. McGrew were added to the club board.

Park Association To Elect Officers

A meeting of the North Lake park association will be held Monday at 8 p. m. in the park pavilion, Frank Gillingham, president, announced today.

Officers will be elected and the recreation committee will give a report on plans for entertaining the young people of the area. Members of this committee are Amos Day, Martin Kagey and William Wilmoth.

Cast Named For Madison 3-Act Play

Latin Club Selling Emblems for Plates

By ANN DIDICHER

The cast for the three-act comedy, "The Parlor Story" was named this week at Madison high school. The play to be given March 25 is under the direction of Miss Stout and the cast includes Joanne Beer, Joyce Elliot, Jim Brightbill, Lydia Gross, Charles Frye, Carl Theaker, Jim Gatton, Dave Davies, Dorothy Estep and Neil Topper.

The Latin club is selling license plate emblems for 50 cents. They are green and white and have Madison Rams and Mansfield, Ohio, printed on them.

Initiation was held by the Y-Teens Wednesday afternoon.

Tuesday marked the last home game for the basketball teams. The first stringers paced Willard throughout for a 55-47 triumph while the reserves went down by a 26-39 count. The final regularly scheduled contest of the season finds the Rams at Galion Friday.

Regular Madison rooters seen at the games include Dorothy Estep and Bob Kithcart, Mary Lou Lorentz and Glenn Berry and such loyal Ram followers as Betty Riggenbach, Reba Stoffer, Jo Ciraulo, Clara Dill, Eloise Schierer, Eleanor Dorner and the coaches' wives, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Kopcial and Mrs. Dowler.

Cleveland's Not Considered Site

WASHINGTON — (AP) — There is no basis for a rumor the traditional Army-Navy football game will be played in Cleveland this year, the army said yesterday.

An official of West Point, host to this year's game, said: "The military academy feels it is impracticable to play the game in any other place than Philadelphia or New York because of the distance involved. We feel the game should be played before the cadets and midshipmen."

Cleveland Pucksters Face Tough Opposition

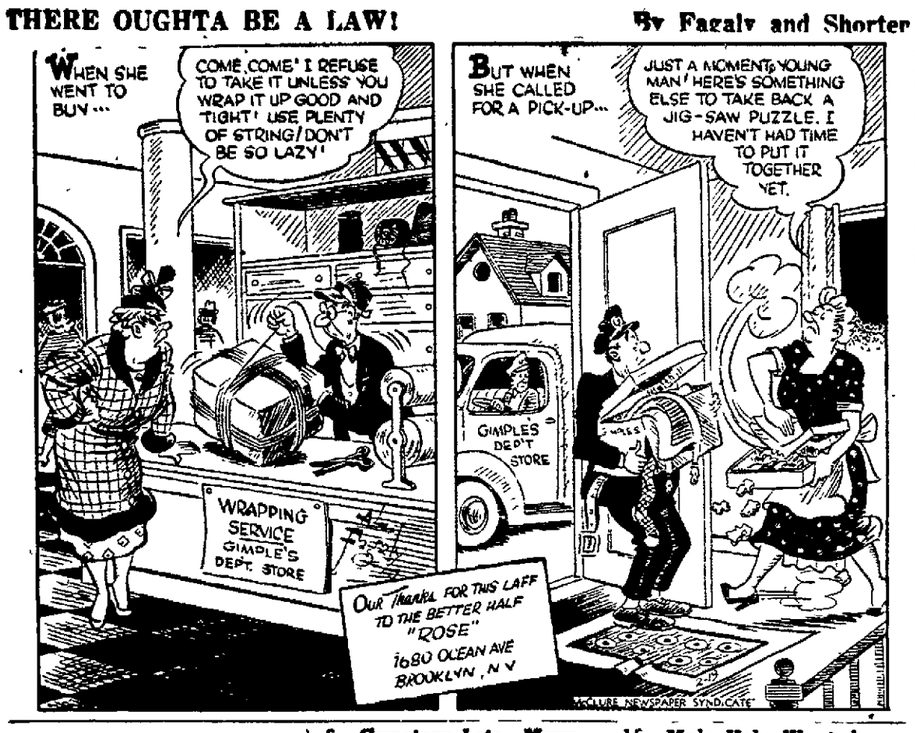
THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

By Fagaly and Shorter



Czech Skater Is Champion

PARIS — (UP) — Lovely Alena Vrzanova, svelte skater from Czechoslovakia, succeeded today to the throne occupied last year by Barbara Ann Scott of Canada.

The 18-year-old Czech miss administered a sound trouncing to 16 rivals in competition that ended yesterday to win the women's amateur world figure skating championship.

Yvonne Sherman, a brunette smooth skater from Jackson Heights, N. Y., gave the winner the closest race.

Ex-Kentucky Back Gets Nebraska Post

LINCOLN, NEB — (UP) — Robert Davis, 33, a former quarterback at the University of Kentucky, has been named backfield football coach at the University of Nebraska.

Davis played eight years of pro football with the Los Angeles Rams, Philadelphia Eagles, and Boston Yanks.

Hunter Favored

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Chuck Hunter was installed today as an early 6 to 5 favorite to whip Artie Levine in their 10-round rematch Tuesday night at the Cleveland arena.

Arms Angle Disturbing Pact Makers

Treaty Shouldn't Be 'Military'

The trouble over the Atlantic Pact, which has been advertised to all the world first by the Scandinavian crisis and then by the discussion in the Senate, has been brewing for some months. The trouble can still be set right. But not by any new combination of words in the pact itself. For the trouble arises from a fundamentally false idea which the American negotiators, with the best of intentions but for lack of experience, accepted.

This was the idea that American military collaboration with Western Europe — a necessary and desirable thing — could be and had to be based on a treaty which would run a long time — for as many as sixteen to twenty years.

The idea is fundamentally false. It is not possible to write a treaty which will guarantee military collaboration over a long period of time. The United States cannot under the constitution do this.

No other country can in fact, whatever its constitutional theory, do it. Witness the British and French guarantees to Czechoslovakia before Munich, and their twenty-year treaties, signed during the war and still theoretically valid, with the Soviet Union.

Nor is it necessary to write such a treaty for the purpose of achieving military collaboration of the most intimate and effective kind as long as the situation calls for it. Witness our military collaboration with Canada, with Great Britain as a result of the famous Churchhill — Roosevelt arrangement about the destroyers and the bases, with Denmark about Greenland.

★

A STRONG CASE can be made for a pact which gives legal recognition to the Atlantic Community. A strong case can be made for military aid and special collaboration with Britain, France, and Benelux. But to attempt to fit them together was to drive a square peg into a round hole. It was bound to produce one grave crisis after another.

It has already done serious, perhaps irreparable, damage in Scandinavia. It has now, because the Senators were compelled to state the self-evident but forgotten truth, brought about a severe crisis of confidence in Western Europe. If the underlying idea of treating the pact as the contract of a military coalition is not reconsidered, a destructive debate will be provoked both here and abroad.

The right course is in principle quite clear, and should avoid many otherwise insuperable practical difficulties.

The Atlantic Pact should be divorced entirely from the forthcoming bill to provide military aid. That is to say, adherence to the pact should not be a condition for receiving military aid. Nor should it be deemed a pledge that military aid, over and above that to which all victims of aggression are entitled under the charter, will be given to those who sign, and by implication denied to those who do not sign or are not invited.

The pact, in other words, should not be treated as a military alliance. I say this as a firm believer in the need for close military collaboration between North American and Western Europe. That collaboration should be founded, however, not on the Atlantic Pact but upon concrete military accords similar to those made by E. C. A.) under a military aid bill. Within the American constitutional system that is entirely feasible. It has been done many times before. It can be done again. That is the way to make arrangements for the supply of arms, the use of bases and facilities, the co-ordination of strategical and tactical plans.

Vets Learn Milk Testing Bookkeeping In VA Course

By BILL RUGGLES

Richland county veterans enrolled in the Veterans' Administration institutional on-farm training program are learning milk testing, to a modified form of bookkeeping in their course in general farming.

There are 100 veterans in Richland county taking this training through the local schools at Shelby, Shiloh, Lucas and Union.

Milk testing is invaluable to the farmer in determining which of his cows are producing high quality milk and which ones are not. This process is a complicated procedure involving chemistry and physics.

A specific amount of milk is placed in a bottle with an amount of sulphuric acid and then the bottle and contents are placed in a centrifuge and spun to separate the skim milk from the cream or butterfat.

The centrifuge, in separating these two parts of whole milk by its high speed rotation, does in a few minutes what takes place in your milk bottle when it stands over night in the icebox and you find the cream on top in the morning.

Besides milk testing, the veteran agrarians learn modern simplifid bookkeeping and accounting so they know what part of their farm operation is making a profit, and which crop or cattle enterprise is losing money.

The college of agriculture at Ohio State university gives the program a helping hand by chemically analyzing the soil from the vets' individual farms. The farm "students," assisted by the local instructor of the class can then determine what fertilizers the fields need in order to produce the highest yielding crop returns.

R. G. Zimmerman, training officer in the 10-county district, said "The on-farm training program is designed to teach the veteran farmer all the general farm practices that he should know, and up-to-the-minute scientific data that he would otherwise only learn in some agricultural college."

Instructors, text books, and all other facilities for the teaching of this course are provided by the local school boards which contract with the Veterans' Administration to provide this course at a specified amount per pupil per month.

These contracts have run out in some schools in this area and in the case of the Jeromesville class in Ashland county, the school board has not received payment to provide the instruction since July and August, 1948.

Superintendent of Schools at Jeromesville met with VA officials of the contract division from Cleveland yesterday, to learn when the new contract would be approved by the VA administrator in Washington.

The school's contract had been sent to Washington the first of this week. Negotiations have been going on for the renewal of the contract since last summer, but due to six copies (seven in some instances) having to be made of every contract and other governmental "red tape" technicalities, the school may be forced to dip into its own funds to continue the class.

Contracts for the continuance of the classes at Shelby and Shiloh ran out Dec. 31, 1948. VA officials said they believe the Shelby and Shiloh contracts will be renewed before the school boards are faced with a problem such as exists now at Jeromesville.

WELDING TOO—Veterans learn welding as a part of the VA's on-farm training program, which includes the latest scientific farm procedures as well as machine shop training. Carl Ehret is shown using the arc welding equipment of the VA farm class at Shiloh.

Vet Slain In Gun Battle

hands covered with blood, witnesses said.

He sat on the porch awaiting the arrival of the ambulance which took him to General hospital where he was rushed into the operating room. He was in surgery more than an hour. He was given five blood transfusions during the night.

Lt. Taylor's service with the police department total's six and one half years. During World War II he served in the Navy, participating in several island invasions.

He is married and is the father of one daughter. He lives at 160 Parkwood boulevard.

Police said they had arrested Dilgard on several occasions.

SERVED OSR TERM

In 1938 he was sentenced to the Ohio State reformatory on two counts of breaking and entering in Ashland county. He was sentenced to one-to-seven and one-to-15 years on the two charges, but the sentence was suspended.

He was convicted in Mansfield municipal court on intoxication charges in 1947 and 1948 and was committed to county jail for 13 days on Jan. 13, of this year, when unable to pay a fine of $25 and costs for intoxication.

Police knew that he had recently purchased a gun and that he was difficult to handle, they said.

In the house at the time of the battle were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dilgard, Dilgard's parents. Mrs. Dilgard said her son and husband had been arguing prior to the affair. Dilgard told police that his son had been drinking before the shooting. Police said, however, they did not believe Dilgard was drunk.

Funeral services for Dilgard will be held Monday at 1 p. m. at the Finefrock funeral home with Rev. John G. Gensel, of St. Paul's Lutheran church officiating. Burial will be in Jeromesville cemetery.

Born in Ashland county, Aug. 8, 1916, he was a resident of Mansfield for the last 11 years. He was a former employe of the Ohio Brass company and was a veteran of World War II.

Surviving, in addition to his parents, are two sisters, Mrs. William Craig and Mary Dilgard; and two brothers, Raymond and Walter, all of Mansfield.

New Store Gets Lease

Mansfield's business district is to have a new addition this spring.

Louis A. Madison, president of Madison's, which operates women's specialty stores in Columbus, Akron and Lima, announced today he has leased the storeroom at 86 N. Main street formerly occupied by the Vogue shop.

Madison said the store room will be completely remodeled and the new Madison shop will be opened before Easter. The remodeling, new fixtures and renovating program, which is under way today, will represent an expenditure of $40,000 to $50,000, Madison said. The improvements in the store will include installation of air conditioning.

Madison added the new store will handle a complete line of young women's and women's ready-to-wear clothes, including dresses, suits, coats and also complete lines of accessories.

that day by Frank Pitzen on the public square in Plymouth.

The FBI said Chronister has admitted holding the gun during the robbery. He told the agents he had spent all the money and that he had disposed of the pistol.

According to the FBI, Chronister has a long record of petty crime and had served time in San Diego for theft and desertion from the Marine corps. His profession was listed as cook.

If convicted, Chronister faces a possible fine of $5,000 and or 20 years in a federal penitentiary or both.

Abbatisschio said the FBI was aid in ite investigation by Marshal Robert Meiser of Tiro.

Men's Club Headed By Edward Quinn

Edward W. Quinn has been elected president of the Men's club of the First Presbyterian church, succeeding John R. Crabbe, who moved from the city.

Crabbe, head of Woolworth's here, was transferred to Covington, Ky. The names of Clifford B. Smith and Chester N. McGrew were added to the club board.

Park Association To Elect Officers

A meeting of the North Lake park association will be held Monday at 8 p. m. in the park pavilion, Frank Gillingham, president, announced today.

Officers will be elected and the recreation committee will give a report on plans for entertaining the young people of the area. Members of this committee are Amos Day, Martin Kagey and William Wilmoth.

Pastor's Wife To Speak Here

Mrs. Harold L. Anderson, wife of an Ashland pastor, will speak Sunday night during a program to be presented by the Women's Society for Christian Service at the Central Methodist church.

During the service, members of the WSCS chorus will sing "The Hour That Refreshes" and "When the World Goes Wrong," directed by Mrs. J. C. Stout. Miss Gracann Fogle will present as a solo Guion's "Prayer." Young people of the church who play in the Sunday school orchestra also will take part in the program.

Retains Post

Mrs. Della Buckley Shuster announced today that she is retaining her position as district manager for the Luzier cosmetics company in this area. Cast Named For Madison 3-Act Play

Latin Club Selling Emblems for Plates

By ANN DIDICHER

The cast for the three-act comedy, "The Parlor Story" was named this week at Madison high school. The play to be given March 25 is under the direction of Miss Stout and the cast includes Joanne Beer, Joyce Elliot, Jim Brightbill, Lydia Gross, Charles Frye, Carl Theaker, Jim Gatton, Dave Davies, Dorothy Estep and Neil Topper.

The Latin club is selling license plate emblems for 50 cents. They are green and white and have Madison Rams and Mansfield, Ohio, printed on them.

Initiation was held by the Y-Teens Wednesday afternoon.

Tuesday marked the last home game for the basketball teams. The first stringers paced Willard throughout for a 55-47 triumph while the reserves went down by a 26-39 count. The final regularly scheduled contest of the season finds the Rams at Galion Friday.

Regular Madison rooters seen at the games include Dorothy Estep and Bob Kithcart, Mary Lou Lorentz and Glenn Berry and such loyal Ram followers as Betty Riggenbach, Reba Stoffer, Jo Ciraulo, Clara Dill, Eloise Schierer, Eleanor Dorner and the coaches' wives, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Kopcial and Mrs. Dowler.

Cleveland's Not Considered Site

WASHINGTON — (AP) — There is no basis for a rumor the traditional Army-Navy football game will be played in Cleveland this year, the army said yesterday.

An official of West Point, host to this year's game, said: "The military academy feels it is impracticable to play the game in any other place than Philadelphia or New York because of the distance involved. We feel the game should be played before the cadets and midshipmen."

Cleveland Pucksters Face Tough Opposition

(By International News Service)

The Cleveland Barons today faced a "do-or-die" weekend in their American hockey league schedule, and barring upsets, they should "Do."

Buffalo and New Haven provide the opposition for the struggling Cleveland Club —Buffalo tonight in Cleveland and the Ramblers tomorrow night in New Haven.

Hamilton's New Golf Record Is Rained Out

HOUSTON, Tex.—(INS)—Bob Hamilton of Landover, Md., had the dubious honor today of having set a new course record at the $10,000 Houston Open golf tournament.

Hamilton turned in a blistering nine under par 63 yesterday but heavy rains drowned out the rest of the competition—so the new record didn't count.

Cowen Gets 30 Points For Revenge

LOUDONVILLE — Gerald Cowen, diminutive Loudonville guard, went on a one-man scoring spree here last night to almost single-handedly defeat Mansfield Madison, 57-43.

Cowen pumped in 30 points from all angles to avenge an earlier 40-31 defeat the Rams had handed Loudonville.

Madison led only three times in the ball game, all in the first quarter. It set the pace at 9-7, 11-8, and 12-11, and each time Loudonville reclaimed the lead before the Rams could build it up.

RAMS CATCH FIRE

After leading 17-12 at the quarter the Red Birds continued to pile on the margin till Madison caught fire late in the third quarter. Then, trailing by 22 points, 45-23, Madison caught fire.

Joe Distl, who had 14 points for the night, pumped in three baskets, and Larry Secrist and Ed Chelski each got a bucket and a foul to bring the score up to 45-35. Loudonville caught hold again and sewed up the game with seven straight points.

TENTH CAGE LOSS

It was the tenth defeat against eight victories for the Rams. They will conclude regular season play next Friday at Galion.

Even the Ram reserves were victims of a reversal of their previous game. Loudonville won 37-28 as it outscored the tall Ram seconds in every period but the last.

B-W End Signs With Giant Club

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Gene Degyansky, Baldwin Wallace college athlete, has signed a contract to play professional football with the New York Giants of the national league.

An end on the Baldwin Wallace eleven for three years, and captain of the basketball squad the past two seasons, Degyansky will begin his professional career next fall. Coach Ray Watts said he would remain eligible for the rest of the basketball season as he has not yet received any money from the Giants.

Ike Goes South

NASHVILLE, TENN — (AP) — Dwight (Ike) Trubey, end coach at Purdue university, has been appointed Vanderbilt line coach. Trubey, 42, a graduate of Wittenberg college, was an all-Ohio tackle in 1930 and 1931.

Savold Asks Joe For Big Guarantee

NEW YORK — (UP) — Lee Savold will accept a spring "challengers' match" with Ezzard Charles if Joe Louis will post $50,000 to guarantee a June title defense against the winner.

That was Savold's answer today to Louis' latest ultimatum.

Louis had set next Monday as the deadline before which blond Savold of Paterson, N. J., had to accept a challengers' fight with brown-skinned Charles of Cincinnati or be considered out of title competition.

Bellville 5 Ties In County Race

By CHARLEY STINE

LUCAS—Bellville won a tie for the Richland county championship but Lucas established itself as a tournament dark-horse by holding the favored Blue Jays to a 38-35 victory in the season finale here last night.

The game was a long uphill battle for Lucas and could have gone either way with a little different luck on some close-in shots.

Lucas never led but was tied 18-18 early in the third quarter and was within one point at three separate occasions. Center Bob Zody climaxed the final drive by looping in a long fielder to bring the score to 36-35 with one minute to go.

Bellville attempted to freeze the ball but lost it on an over-and-back violation with a half-minute left in the game. Lucas got at least a half-dozen good shots in the final 30 seconds but hurried them too much. Finally on a jump ball, Bellville's Jim Fry batted a long tip the length of the floor which Fred Collins flipped in for the clinching goal.

The victory was the eighth straight in league play for Bellville and ended its season with a 13-4 overall mark. Lucas won eight of 14 games.

Forward Jack Stephenson was the bulwark of the Lucas attack as he scored four field goals and converted on seven out of seven free throws.

Bellville reserves won the preliminary 26-24.

Plymouth Raps Lexington; Donnenwirth Top Scorer

PLYMOUTH—Possibly the most surprising upset of the Richland county league basketball season was pulled off here last night as the fighting Pilgrims of Plymouth kayoed Lexington, 50-43.

Showing the way for Plymouth was Forward Desmond Donnenwirth who pumped in 20 points to capture the Richland county league scoring championship.

Donnenwirth had been tied with Ontario's Howard Sunnucks but Sunnucks was held to 12 points last night.

FIFTH OF YEAR

The victory last night was only the fifth of the year for Plymouth and enabled it to finish in a tie for fifth place with Butler. Lexington closed its season with an over-all record of 16 victories and seven defeats.

Lexington appeared to be on the road to the expected runaway when it pulled into a 17-8 first quarter lead but the Minutemen were ambushed in the second quarter. Plymouth fought its way into a 27-22 lead and its tight man-for-man defense helped hold onto the lead.

Lexington salvaged the reserve game by a 38-26 score.

Pretty, dark-haired Henrietta Binion reigned as Basketball Queen for the Pilgrims' final and victorious game of the season on the home floor. Miss Binon, a member of the senior class, was crowned in half-time ceremonies by Ronald Trauger and presented a loving cup by Donnenwirth, senior co-captains of the Pilgrim varsity.

Winless Iberia Upsets Sparta In Tourney

By DOYLE RUSK

IBERIA — Little Iberia, which has not won a county league game in two years, provided the chief fireworks in the Morrow county league tournament openers last night as it routed Sparta, 45-38, on the Johnsville high court.

Tourney favorite Edison walloped Chesterville, 64-33, and Marengo took the measure of Johnacillw, 40-28, in other games. Edison's sharp-shotting guard, Maynard Goare, rang the bell for 27 points to lead Edison.

RESERVE TOURNEY

In the reserve tournament, Iberia walloped Sparta, 45-38, Johnsville took Marengo, 28-23, and Chesterville edged Edison, 32-31.

Semi-finals in the winners' bracket and bne losers bracket game will be played tonight on two courts. Marengo and Iberia meet at Edison at 7:30 p. m. Johnsville and Sparta tangle an hour later.

Edison will meet Cardington in both reserve and varsity games at Iberia. Reserve game will start at 7:30 p. m. Cardington held a first round bye.

Indians Sign Two Players

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The world champion Cleveland Indians today announced receipt of the signed contracts of outfielder Bob Kennedy and pitcher Mike Garcia.

Twenty-two tribesmen now have inked contracts, with 17 still dickering.

Kennedy, obtained from the Chicago White Sox in mid-season last year, batted .301 in 66 games with the Indians.

Garcia was with Oklahoma City of the Texas League last year and wound up as the second best hurler in the circuit with a record of 19 victories and 16 defeats.

Scoring Leaders Feature Church Court Program

Scoring leaders of three different basketball leagues will be in action at the YMCA tonight in the three-game carnival being sponsored by the Senior Church league.

Don Sands, American league's champion point-maker, will lead Westinghouse against St. Mathews which boasts the one-two punch of Trent Snavely and Dale Meeker in the 8 p. m. second game. Meeker and Snavely have been alternating as Senior church leaders most of the season.

FINAL CONTEST

The final game on the program features Bob Keen of the Salesmen who won the scoring championship of the National league. The Salesmen will oppose Lucas Lutheran which is led by Red Berry and Les McNeely, at 9 p. m.

Opening the program will be a contest between Mayflower church and First Christian of the junior church league. Ken Schnuerer and Jim Wakely pace the Mayflower squad while Gene Warner and Lew Birmelin lead First Christian.

Basketball Star Breaks His Leg

HAMILTON — (AP) — Wilbur Clarkston, 17, forward for the Fairfield High school basketball team, suffered a broken right leg last night in the Fairfield-Wayne game of the Butler county tournament.

He was injured when he crashed into a section of bleachers when coming in for a layup shot in the second quarter. Fairfield was ahead, 19-18 at the time and went on to win 50-33.

Ontario 5 Wins Share In Richland

ONTARIO—Ontario roared into a tie for the Richland county league basketball championship here last night by walloping Union, 80-41.

It was Ontario's best season since 1938 when Coach Dick Casad played center for the county champions.

The Warriors broke a two-game losing streak last night by scoring four points before Union tallied and led all the way. Second-stringers played much of the second half.

HOWARD HELD DOWN

However, the Warriors' Howard Sunnucks, who led the league in scoring since opening day, dropped the crown as he was held to only 12 points. He totaled 198 for the season. Guard Jack Perry paced last night's tilt with 17.

Ontario reserves won their 21st game of the year, 29-12, as Kenny Gabor dropped in 17 points.

Crucial Big 9 Game Slated

CHICAGO — (AP) — The big nine basketball drive focuses on Ann Arbor tonight as Michigan and Minnesota battle to remain in the title picture.

Winner of the crucial engagement will join Illinois to make the stretch run for the championship a two-team affair.

Defending champion Michigan, with a 15-game winning string at home, enters the showdown with a 5-2 record. Minnesota has 7-2.

Illinois, idle until meeting Iowa Monday, is in the lead with 7-1.

In other big nine engagements tonight, Ohio State 5-4 faces Northwestern (1-8) in Chicago stadium, Indiana (3-5) is at Purdue (6-3), and Wisconsin (2-6) is at Iowa (1-6).

Notre Dame meets De Paul in the second half of the stadium doubleheader.

Fusari Edges Leading 'Rook'

NEW YORK — (AP) — Rocky Castellani, the pride of the Pennsylvania coal towns, is the latest victim of the rookie-of-the-year jinx.

Recently feted as the oustanding boxing newcomer of 1948, Castellani was beaten by Charlie Fusari last night in a close 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden. It was Rocky's first main bout on the big time.

Outpointed by Fusari, 23-year-old blond slugger from Irvington, N. J., Castellani was not disgraced. The verdict for the 8 to 5 underdog was unanimous but close. Referee Rudy Goldstein had it 5-3-2. Judge Harold Barnes 6-3-1 and Judge Jack Gordon 5-4-1.

Pennsylvania Tandem Takes ABC Top Spot

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — (AP) — Pennsylvania bowlers hold top positions in three events of the 46th annual American bowling congress tournament at the end of the first week of competition.

Charles Carnegie and Ed Montgomery of Philadelphia took over first place in the two-man event yesterday with a 1306 score.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Olympians from six nations and top performers from several other countries will compete in the 61st annual national AAU indoor track and field championships at Madison Square Garden tonight.

WILLARD — Cy Butler of Alliance, president of the National Hot Stove league, was honored guest at the reorganization meeting of the Willard Hot Stove league and Old Time ballplayers association here last night.

A charter was granted to the local club inscribed with the signatures of Billy Southworth and Cy Young. Frank P. (Doik) Navario, of the National Baseball federation, and a group from the Cleveland Old Timers chapter were also guests.

Tygers' Seven Tilt Win Streak Broken

By FRED THARP, News-Journal Sports Editor

MASSILLON—Mansfield Senior high school's seven-game winning streak was unjointed by the slimmest possible margin here last night as the Tygers bowed to a good Washington high team, 54 to 53.

Although the Tigers were in the van throughout most of the game, the score was tied on nine different occasions and Mansfield forged ahead four times. Eight of the "tie" points occurred in the first half and the Tygers never led after the second quarter.

The race horse brand of basketball fashioned by Massillon Coach Paul Schofer proved too much for the Senior high lads at the start of the fourth quarter. Washington high surged ahead 51-to-41 before the Tygers settled down to methodically pare the lead.

BACK IN GAME

Rugged Ed Demyan batted in a rebound and Soph Ken McCally skied one from the middle of the floor before Jim Poth hit a foul for the Tigers. Then McCally sunk a foul and Ed Schmitt connected for three points to put Mansfield back in the game, 52-49.

With 2:15 to go McCally dropped in another free throw but Clarence Johnson and Irvin Crable hit free fosses for Massillon. Slender Jimmy Anderson, Tyger forward, hit his seventh straight foul with 1:15 to go and Massillon adopted stalling tactics. The Tigers held the ball for 35 seconds but Mansfield lifted the oval and Anderson dunked in a one-hander with 20 seconds on the board.

The Tygers didn't get another chance.

Washington was in the van at the quarters, 15-12, 32-27, and 44-41.

At one time in the fourth heat, Massillon led 40-33. However, McCally hit a pivot and Demyan a rebound. Anderson knotted the count with three straight foul tosses.

Anderson and Chuck Galey, the springy 5-10 Massillon forward, split scoring honors with 17 points. Galey fouled out in the third heat but Paul Ferguson, the Tygers' ace playmaker, followed in the first minute of the fourth quarter. Ferguson seemed on the way to his best scoring night with 10 points. The most he has ever made is 12.

Senior high made only 19 of 64 shots and missed 15 of 19 in the fourth quarter. From the foul line, the Tygers had 15 of 21 while Massillon could make only eight of 18.

The Tygers now have won 13 and lost six, all on the road. Massillon has 10 wins and four losses. Senior high had copped three straight from Washington.

SOPHS SMASHED

The Baby Bengals ran into a whirlwind in the preliminary and fell, 62 to 22, for their fourth defeat in 16 games. It was the worst beating ever absorbed by a Fred Staub coached quintet.

Massillion led by periods, 11 to 4, 18 to 10 and 36 to 16.

World Service Will Highlight Series of Church Events

Missionary To Deliver Three Talks

Special Meeting Set At Shelby

World Service programs will be presented in two Mansfield churches tomorrow with a special observance planned next week at a meeting of Evangelical and Reformed churches in Shelby.

Sunday at the Main Street Evangelical UB and the First Evangelical UB churches, Rev. Gerald R. Zimmer, former missionary to China, will be the speaker.

Rev. Zimmer will talk at 9:30 a. m. at the Park avenue east church, First Evangelical UB, on the theme, "One World for Christ." At 10:30 a. m. he will appear at the Main Street church and again at 7:30 p. m.

With his wife and family, Rev. Zimmer worked in the mission field at Tungjen, Kweichow, China, under the auspices of the Evangelical United Brethren board of missions until Mrs. Zimmer's illness forced them to return to the United States. Rev. Zimmer is a native of Marion.

When he talks at the First Evangelical UB church, he will be introduced by Miss Mary Myrtle Yohn, president of the Christian Service Guild, who will preside at the service.

The weekly meeting at the First Evangelical and Reformed church at Shelby will be attended by Rev. John C. Melchert, pastor of the St. John's church and members of his congregation.

It will convene next Wednesday evening, with Rev. Harlan J. Miller, pastor, as host.

Speaker will be Henry Tani, an American born citizen of Japanese extraction, and a graduate of Leland-Stanford university. Tani is an educator, who was removed from the west coast to the relocation center at Topax, Utah, after Pearl Harbor and who is now associated with the board of national missions of the E and R church.

Representatives of the various E and R churches of this area will be present for the meeting at which Rev. R. R. Elliker of Galion, World Service Counselor for this district, will preside.

Rev. W. A. Rogers of Youngstown will be the guest speaker at the Shiloh Baptist church tomorrow, both at 11 a. m. and 3 p. m. service. The evening service will be in charge of the pastor, Rev. A. J. Payne, who will preach on the subject, "Too Many Horses in the Sky Not to be Real."

COUNCIL TO MEET

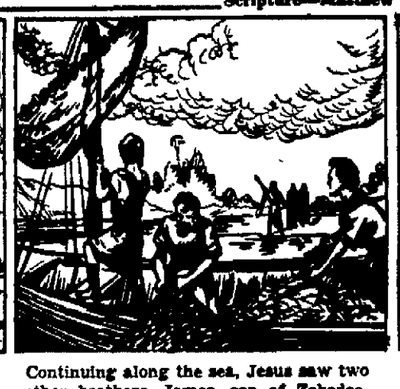
The council of the St. John's church will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the church parlors.

Jesus Chooses His Apostles — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

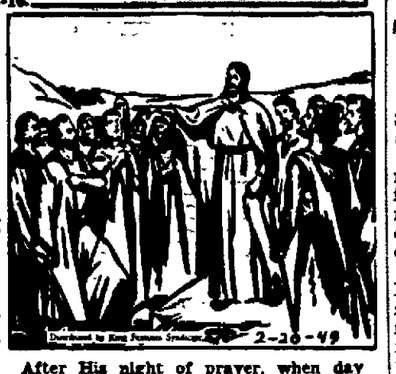
Scripture—Matthew 4:18-22; Mark 1:16-20; 3:13-19; Luke 6:12-16

Jesus, walking by the Sea of Galilee, saw Simon Peter and his brother Andrew casting a net into the sea. And He said to them, "Follow Me," and they left their nets and followed Him.



Continuing along the sea, Jesus saw two other brothers, James, son of Zebedee, and John his brother in a ship with their father, and He called to them, and they left the ship and followed Him.

After healing the man with the withered hand in the synagogue, Jesus went out in the mountain to pray, and all night long He continued in prayer to God before choosing the twelve apostles.



After His night of prayer, when day came, Jesus called all His disciples to Him, and He chose twelve, whom He named apostles, to be with Him always.

MEMORY VERSE—Mark 3:14.

Men's Club Speaker Serving On Hoover Commission

Although Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, who will speak to the Men's club of the First Methodist church Monday night, March 7, was elected to the presidency of Ohio Wesleyan university last June, he is still serving on the Hoover commission with the former president of the United States.

Dr. Flemming is continuing with the commission at the request of President Truman who allowed a 60-day extension to the commission's work on organizatio study for the executive branch of the government. This means that Dr. Flemming will continue to work with the commission for several more weeks.

It is expected that his talk here will deal with some of the aspects of that commission, according to W. C. Peterson, president of the Men's club.

Dr. Flemming returns to Ohio Wesleyan as the first alumnus and the first layman to become president in the 107-year-old history of the university. At 43, he is the ninth president. He assumed his duties Sept. 1 after 21 years of journalistic, educational and governmental work in Washington.

Dr. Flemming also holds the rank of professor of political science and teaches an advanced class in government. He plans to make the school, already famous as the "Mother of Methodist Bishops", well known for its training of government workers.

In addition to his work as president and a member of the commission, Dr. Flemming heads a committee to advise the United States Atomic Energy commission on labor-management relations. He is a member of the Scientific Personnel Advisory committee for the office of naval research; chairman of the department of the church and economic life of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

DR. FLEMMING

Last Nov. 30, Dr. Flemming received the laymen's award of the Washington Federation of Churches, given for distinguished service.

The meeting will be a dinner session at 6:30 p. m., and is announced as one for men only. However, it is open to all men of the church, Ohio Wesleyan alumni and the public.

Tickets may be obtained from men of the church.

Rev. Senter Leaves City

Rev. Mark H. Senter, jr., has resigned as pastor of the Mansfield Gospel Center, 80 South Diamond street, and has left for Greenville, S. C.

Candidates for the pastorate are being heard weekly at the Gospel Center. Until a new pastor is obtained, services are in charge of Leo Keifer, a member of the church board.

Rev. Senter came to Mansfield two years ago.

2 Meetings Scheduled

Young People To Go to Wooster

Two special meetings have been arranged for Sunday at the First Presbyterian church. The first is a rally for all Senior members of the Westminster Fellowship. It will be held at the First Presbyterian church in Wooster.

Young people of the church are to meet at 1:15 p. m. at the church here. They expect to reach Wooster about 2:15 p. m. and share an afternoon of fun and fellowship centered around the theme, "Yours—And What You Do With IT."

The second meeting is for parents of the children in the primary department. This will be a tea in the church parlors at 3:30 p. m. A program has been planned, during which the teachers will help the parents understand their part in the newly-installed Church school program.

Mrs. Jack Schmitt, department head, asks that all parents read "Opening Doors" before attending the meeting and take their copies with them.

Churches Mark 'Wooster Day'

Tomorrow is College of Wooster Sunday for Ohio churches and in keeping with the observance a special bulletin will be used at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow morning.

The bulletin will contain the order of service.

The College of Wooster is one of 44 church-related colleges of the Presbyterian church. President of the alumni in Mansfield is Atty. Robert S. Ricksecker and vice president is Clifford B. Smith. Students attending the college from the church are Douglas Black, Nancy Galbraith, and William McGraw, freshmen, and Harold Amsbaugh, sophomore.

Methodist Church to Hold 'Day of Prayer' March 4

The First Methodist church will be open all day Friday March 4, for meditation and prayer, in observance of the annual World Day of Prayer, held here by the Mansfield Council of Church Women.

MRS. KOCHHEISER

Mrs. Earl Kochheiser, program chairman for the two meetings scheduled for that day, has announced the program for the 2 p.m. service.

In addition to the worship service prepared by the national World Day of Prayer committee, there will be special music and a brief meditation on "Prayer" by Miss Bertha Ruess, Mansfield's dean of church women.

Mrs. Clair Kirchhofer, president of the council, will be the leader for the day. Mrs. Willis Naas, organist at the First Methodist church, will play for the service and special music will include a girls' sextet directed by Mrs. W. J. Hazeltine, a solo by Mrs. Lawrence Anderson, accompanied by Mrs. H. F. Mills and "The Lord's Prayer" sung by Mrs. Wanda Hess Donnan.

The projects for which offerings on that day will be made will be presented by Mrs. Paul Lee.

Mrs. R. H. Damlos will be chairman of the hostesses for that day and Mrs. Clarence Lisle, chairman of ushers. Mrs. V. C. Stamets and Mrs. Edward Smith have charge of the publicity. Mrs. Charles Stoneburner is assisting with details of the service.

The worship service prepared by the national committee is based on the general Bible theme, "The Lord is Thy Keeper" chosen by Christian Chinese women.

It includes responsive readings, special prayers and scripture verses and responses. The ritual is divided into these various phases: Adoration, Penitence, Assurance: Thanksgiving, Offering of Self, Presentation of Offerings, Intercession, and the final dedication.

Fete Planned At St. John's

More than 200 are expected to attend the annual Father and Son banquet to be held at St. John's church Monday at 6:30 p. m.

Charles J. Finfgeld, toastmaster, will welcome the guests and preside at the dinner.

The speaker will be Dr. Glenn R. Clayton, president of Ashland college. The Afternoon Guild of the church will serve the dinner, with Mrs. Ralph H. Damlos in charge.

Mrs. Henry Stauffer is in charge of the dining room and Mrs. Ralph Keil of table decorations.

St. Paul Sunday School To See Religious Film

A sound film, "Man of Faith," will be presented to the entire Sunday school of the St. Paul Lutheran church tomorrow morning at 9:15, under the supervision of Donald C. Matthes.

A seven-by-nine-foot screen has been placed in the assembly room downstairs and selected films have been booked several months ahead so that the Sunday school may view one once each month.

Matthes said the "Man of Faith" film is based on the story of Darius, a wealthy young man of Tiberias, as contained in Mark 2:1-12. Darius, according to the Bible story, decides to sell his house and land and follow Christ. Waiitg in Capernaum for Christ and his desciples, he is injured in an accident which causes paralysis. He believes Jesus can held him and four friends let him down through the roof of a house where Jesus was teaching.

★

The third lecture in a series of 12 for members of the teachers training class of the St. Luke's Lutheran church, will be given Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the pastor's room. The subject of the talk will be "The Aim and Object of Teaching."

Dems Must Abide By Promises or GOP 'In'

The political complexion of the United States Senate in 1950 may possibly have been determined by a small meeting in New York City on Feb. 5. Representatives of twenty-one national organizations whose memberships played a decisive role in giving Democrats control of both Senate and House of the 81st Congress bluntly served notice that "no other recourse will be given us except to give control of the Senate in 1950 to the Republicans" if the Democratic Senate leadership allows that party's civil rights pledges to be nullified by blustering Dixiecrats.

That such a threat can be fulfilled and is no idle boast is evident on examination of the politically powerful groups which spoke. Organized labor was represented by both the AFL and CIO. Protestant, Catholic, Jewish, women's and Negro organizations were there. With the exception of the Americans for Democratic Action none of the powerful bodies could be classified as "professional" political ones.

Instead they spoke for millions of independent voters who, during the past 16 years, have taken away from political machines the deciding of national and local elections.

It would have been enlightening, and probably embarrassing, to the present Senate majority leadership to have heard the discussion of their apparent surrender to date to the threats of southern senators to prevent action on any legislation in the 81st Congress, unless amendment of the Senate rules against filibuster is shelved. Speaker after speaker commented sharply on the failure of the majority leadership to make any visible effort to bring up the issue and settle it once for all.

The fears of a double-cross on the civil rights issue or, at best, timidity which would cause disastrous postponement were justified by subsequent revelation in Washington that a "gentlemen's agreement had been entered into to postpone, until after February 28th, consideration of amendment of the rules or any other important legislation. It is generally believed that this is a deliberate attempt to weaken organized labor's support of civil rights legislation by refusing to take up rules amendment until the Taft-Hartley act is ready for Senate action.

Since it is estimated that from four to eight weeks will be devoted to debate on amendment of the Taft-Hartley act, this "deal" will permit appropriations bills, particularly for national defense and housing, to reach the Senate Calendar and be ready for action when the Taft-Hartley vote is eventually taken. By this maneuvering the majority leadership hopes to avoid a showdown on civil rights.

MARGIN IS SLIM

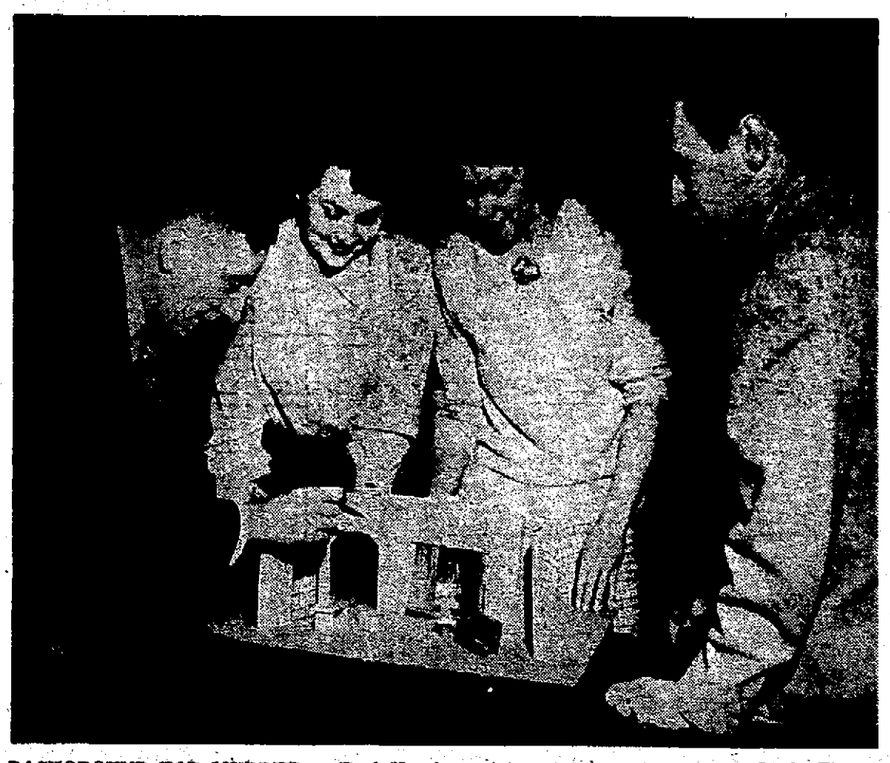
More than a dozen Democratic senators must stand for reelection two years hence in states where the margin between the two parties is normally slim and where labor, minority and other voters, whose representatives joined in the warning, unmistakably hold the balance of power. The statement pointedly reminded the Democrats that it is their party and not its individual members which is on trial. Doublecrossing or reneging on its unequivocal pledges on civil rights will be the yardstick by which the party will be judges.

Puerile political finagling to postpone action on amendment of the Senate rules until the Taft-Hartley act is ready for Senate action, as a means of taking away the support of labor for civil rights legislation, was roundly scored.

In its warning to the Democrats, the conferees by no means gave a clean bill of health to the G. O. P. It was clearly recognized that with but a very few exceptions the Republicans are equally guilty of chicanery on the issue. There were no illusions that turning over control of the Senate twenty-one months from now to reactionary Republicans would create much of a change. But the responsibility lies squarely on the shoulders of the majority party.

Just as the independent voters in pivotal states defeated Republicans in 1948, because of their failure as the majority party in the 80th Congress, so are the Democrats in line for the same treatment in 1950 if they fail to keep their solemn pledges.

It seems to be in the cards that unless they re-read the election returns and learn that Truman and not Strom Thurmond won the election, much of the present Democratic leadership is in for rough sailing.



BACKGROUND FOR MURDER — Earl Heasley points out to members of the Little Theater publicity committee the scale model of the abandoned, haunted theater stage where "A Murder Has Been Arranged" will be presented next week. Join Cast of Murder Mystery

Musicians to Have Roles In Play

Two well-known Mansfield musicians will appear in the mystery play, "A Murder Has Been Arranged," when the Little Theater presents the drama Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

One of them will be A. Lemoine Derr, who takes the role of "Cavendish," an orchestra leader. The role will be nothing new to Derr who daily directs musical groups in Mansfield schools. However, it will be the first time he has been "involved" in a murder mystery while acting as director.

In the play, Derr directs Paul Burgener's orchestra as it plays for the party on the stage of the old theater, where Sir Charles Jasper is giving his 40th birthday party. Derr appears in both the first and third acts.

Miss Beverly Wentz, young Mansfield singer, takes the part of "The Woman," a mysterious, wraith-like figure who flits back and forth across the haunted theater stage. Wearing a dark red evening gown and a musty wrap, Miss Wentz will add to the weird and "spooky" effect of the old, abandoned theater, where all action takes place.

While rehearsals are going on in the Common Pleas Court room, work is being done on the sets, out at the Little Theater workshop in the old Maple Grove school. A model of the stage setting was taken to rehearsal the other night so that members of the cast might get an idea of the uncanny background for the murder that unfolds itself on the stage.

Tickets for the play are on sale at Richman's, Ritter's and Doc Hamman's.

Chambers' Detailed Story On Hiss Amazes Listeners

By ROBERT E. STRIPLING
(Edited by Bob Considine)

Alger Hiss did a remarkable job of knocking the wind out of Whittaker Chamber's testimony, when the former State Department official confidently took the stand before the House un-American activities committee to retort to the charges.

There was little optimism in our little subcommittee as we rode to New York on the night of August 6, 1948, to confront Chambers with the brunt of Hiss's denials.

We met the Time editor at 10:30 the next morning in the Federal Court House, Foley Square. At the start we were frankly skeptical of him, but he blandly ignored this and began adding a great store of detail to the astonishing story he had told earlier.

Chambers added facts which only an extremely intimate friend of Hiss (or one who had hired dozens of private detectives to compile a report on Hiss) could have provided.

This is what he testified under oath:

Mrs. Hiss called her husband "Hilly." He called her "Dilly" or "Pross." The Hisses lived in a series of frugally decorated homes, had a cocker spaniel which was occasionally boarded at a veterinarian's on Wisconsin avenue, employed a part-time cook and cleaning woman, vacationed on the eastern shore of Maryland, never drank at home, ate very simply.

Hiss owned a battered Ford roadster, with manual windshield wipers.

Hiss insisted on giving the battered Ford to the party, for use by "some poor organizer in the West or somewhere".

Hiss walked with a slight mince, said Chambers, had cordial but not very intimate relations with his mother and sister, played tennis. Mrs. Hiss was the former Priscilla Fansler, from Great Valley, near Paoli, Pa.

SOLD SPRING WATER

Hiss wore glasses only for reading, Chambers went on. He was slightly deaf in one ear. As a boy in Baltimore, according to Chambers, Hiss used to pull his small wagon to Druid Hill Park, fill up with bottles of spring water, bring them back and sell them.

At the end of the man's incredibly detailed account, Chambers was asked by Rep. Nixon if he would submit to a lie detector test.

"Yes," he said, calmly, "if necessary."

"You have that much confidence?" Nixon asked him.

Chambers looked at him oddly. "I am telling the truth," he said, quietly.

We did not call Hiss again until August 16. But between August 9 and August 13 the witness chair was seldom cool.

We heard twice from Alexander Koral, an accused communist courier who declined to answer most of the questions directed at him; Victor Perlo; Gilda de Frank Burke, Nathan Gregory Silvermaster's former secretary who testified that Silvermaster had frequently called most of those accused government officials he refused to identify while on the stand; and twice from Duncan C. Lee, the former OSS counsel, who denied all charges and called Elizabeth Bentley a leftish "nuisance" his wife and himself had tried to ditch.

In addition we heard from Charles Kramer, who also declined to answer most of the questions; George Silverman, former assistant to General Bennett Meyers, who also stood on his constitutional privilege of refusing to answer key questions; Donald Hiss, whose replies and denials were nearly as clear-cut as those of his older brother; several others, and key witnesses Lauchlin Currie, former aide to F.D.R. and former assistant Secretary of Treasury Harry Dexter White.

White testified that he did not know Chambers, and thus, as Chambers had stated, could not have been "in a very agitated frame of mind" when Chambers allegedly asked him to break with the communist movement.

Chairman J. Parnell Thomas thanked White for appearing. Earlier in the hearing he had read aloud a note which White had sent to the chair:

"I am recovering from a severe heart attack. I would appreciate it if the chairman would give me 5 to 10 minutes rest after each hour."

In relation to this, White explained that he had overtaxed his heart during his days as a tennis player and baseball player.

Thomas's prompt, "Yes, sir" was applauded by the crowded caucus room.

But that was about the only applause forth coming.

"A red herring of the strongest type of smell," the President commented that day.

Then we called back Alger Hiss, this time in closed session.

Churchmen Hear Rev. Shuler Speak At Lima Meeting

Rev. Charles L. Shook, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church, recently headed a committee of Mansfield church men who went to Lima to hear Rev. Jack Shuler, who will speak here at evangelistic services beginning March 13.

According to Rev. Shook, the group came back favorably impressed with Rev. Shuler's type of preaching and the work he is doing in the way of evangelism in Lima.

"We presented to Rev. Shuler our code of ethics drawn up for the Mansfield campaign and he heartily endorsed them," Rev. Shook said.

"That code will insure a quiet, sane and dignified campaign, which will not be embarrassing to any Protestant denomination."

When Rev. Shuler comes to Mansfield he will be assisted by J. Stratton Shufelt, song leader, and Lester Barnett, pianist.

Mansfielders who accompanied Rev. Shook, general chairman, to Lima included: Rev. J. Frank Stewart, finance chairman; Rev. Jack Mellick, personal workers' committee chairman; Howard McLaughlin, housing committee, and Rev. David C. Mann, assistant chairman of young people's committee.

REV. JACK SHULER

Other committee chairmen announced by Rev. Shook are Rev A. J. Staats, prayer committee: Rev. Earl Lee, assistant; John H. Ball, outside meetings; Walter Hursh, ushers; Henry A. Senert, music, and R. L. Gutterman.

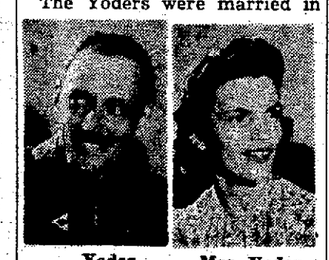
Gifts Showered On German Bride of Lexington Veteran

By JOAN SCHWEITZ

The entire Lexington community pitched in to give Jess Yoder and the wife he had brought with him from Germany, a huge welcome home party and surprise bridal shower.

The Yoders were married in



Yoder Mrs. Yoder

Munich, Germany, in 1945 and lived there until last December, when their two-week old baby became ill of malnutrition. Jess Yoder decided it was time to come but, but his wife couldn't clear her transport with the German consul.

Yoder brought the baby to America by himself and cared for it until his wife could come to Lexington.

Now the Yoders have found a home of their own and their baby is healthy once more. Their neighbors in Lexington decided it was time for a big welcome-home celebration and because they have by this time taken Mrs. Yoder to their heart, they decided to give her a surprise bridal shower. They had had no previous opportunity to wish her good luck in this traditional fashion.

The party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Campbell, at their home on Frederick street. A huge buffet luncheon was served and then the piles of gifts were opened.

Those who couldn't attend the party sent gifts anyway, and Mrs. Yoder found everything she could possibly use in her new home, among them. There were lamps, dishes, silverware, linens, pots and pans, blankets, and toys for the three children.

Lexington started the Yoders off right in their new life in town, and the community hopes that things will stay right for them from here on in.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

PAGE FOUR — MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1949

Drive carefully tomorrow—and it's too soon to drain the anti-freeze out of the radiator.

Here it comes again—this time in association with the Philadelphia transportation strike: "These are the times that try men's soles."

"Know your laws," says an American who has had plenty of trouble with them, and it would be hard to find better advice. Ignorance of the law is no excuse for breaking it.

That Park Avenue East Underpass

TROUBLE over flooding of the Park avenue east subway at the Pennsylvania railroad has extended through the more than twenty years since the underpass was constructed.

During all of that time something has been said, after each heavy rain, about correcting the condition, but nothing has been done.

Various ways have been suggested to prevent accumulation of water in the subway, which obviously has insufficient unimpeded outlet, as explained by E. W. Davis, superintendent of streets.

This seems to be an engineering problem, rather than one for laymen to work out, and the views of councilmen, unless supported by the recommendation of a qualified engineer, are of questionable value.

It may be hoped, however, that present discussion will result in some action, rather than allowing this annoying situation to continue year after year.

Insurance That Pays Doctor Bills

ONE of the basic implications in arguments on behalf of compulsory government health insurance is that the great bulk of Americans are almost totally incapable of dealing with illness when it strikes. That implication is not supported by facts.

According to one authoritative report, more than 52,000,000 Americans now have hospital insurance; 26,000,000 have surgical insurance, and 9,000,000 have medical insurance. In addition, 31,000,000 have disability benefit insurance.

An article in the Christian Science Monitor says that "about half of the 30,000,000 American workers who come under unemployment compensation laws are getting added protection, now, through voluntary programs that insure against wage loss, while employed, due to illness or other disability."

This represents remarkable progress, particularly in the light of the fact that voluntary prepayment medical plans had to pass through a trial and error period at the beginning, and did not get going on a big scale until a relatively few years ago.

So That School Children May Know

THAT'S a good idea—giving those Junior high school pupils a chance to see the inside of the Ohio state reformatory, as a part of their social science study. While it might be impractical, there would be an advantage in giving all school children between the ages of 12 and 16 an opportunity to have a look around the interior of a penal institution such as the reformatory or the state penitentiary, as the impression is likely to be a lasting one.

There is a thought, too, in the possibility of the juvenile court prescribing an inspection of the reformatory as a part of procedure in cases of juvenile delinquency in which a child is reprimanded and sent home, without other punishment.

An old subject for debate was whether people are more influenced by "fear of punishment or hope of reward," and whatever the answer may be, it is only fair to young people that they be fully enlightened on matters that will become of concern in later years.

Legality of Contracts Questioned

THERE is a possibility of far-reaching consequences in all organized professional sports in the suggestion that they may be brought within the scope of federal laws regulating interstate commerce.

A United States court of appeals in New York has ruled that organized baseball is perhaps in interstate commerce. The question has been raised before, but the reasoning of the court now is that radio and television broadcasts have introduced a new element.

The ruling was made in litigation involving the practice which requires players to work for whatever club owns their contracts, and prevents them from accepting more attractive offers from other clubs. Professional football, basketball and hockey use the same kind of contract.

It is thought possible that if organized sports are brought under the jurisdiction of federal anti-trust laws this contract practice might be ruled out as a restraint of trade.

Treating Alcoholism as Disease

ALCOHOLISM is neither a crime nor a misdemeanor; it is a disease This imperfectly recognized truth is repeated by the Massachusetts Commission on Alcoholism, which finds that there are 30,000 confirmed drunkards in the state, and 90,000 more who are excessive drinkers.

The time is approaching when a drunkard will not be fined in police court and allowed to go his way, but will be turned over for psychiatric treatment, to a state agency or perhaps to an unofficial organization like Alcoholics Anonymous.

It seems that the Pennsylvania legislature is considering the idea of designating a "state dog" and that there's a similar proposal in Ohio—which surely must go to show something or other.

One calculator estimates that the "cold war" will cost us a cool 25 billion dollars this year.

Washington Calling

Medical Service Plans

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — The health plan presented by the American Medical Association is tragically late. It is an eleventh-hour death-bed conversion, and because it is that the sincerity and the intention of the AMA will be questioned.

The plan was made public as the Truman administration is working on a comprehensive national health insurance scheme to recommend to Congress. The health insurance bill will go up to Capitol Hill in the near future with the President's okay.

While they have heard propaganda on both sides, and particularly from the AMA, most Americans know little about health insurance. Whether there is any real sentiment in the country for such a widespread program is doubtful.

But what most Americans do know is this: Medical care is so costly that in any adequate form it is beyond the reach of millions. The very poor in cities where there are free clinics and free hospitals can be cared for without cost. The rich can pay their doctor and hospital bills.

In between is the broad band of middle-class Americans for whom a long illness may mean ruin. For millions too proud to accept charity medical costs are prohibitively high. These are the Americans who have looked hopefully for some decent and honorable plan that would give them medical care at a price they could pay.

* * *

Group Insurance Plans.

ONE METHOD is the prepaid, group medical care plan. Families formed in voluntary groups each pay a fixed sum per month to cover doctor and hospital bills.

But the AMA has not encouraged such plans. The public has had the impression that the medical association has set itself against any change. Such a reasonable man as Gov. Earl Warren has been denounced for his proposed California statewide health insurance plan.

In the absence of any concerted movement for a gradual betterment of health standards and a lowering of medical costs on a co-operative or group basis, a federal measure was certain to be put forward.

The tragedy is that the AMA might have pioneered in discovering a grass-roots, voluntary, truly American way to meet the problem.

Instead, until the 12-point health plan of this week, the AMA has devoted its resources to attacking federal health insurance as socialism. Agencies such as the National Physicians committee, which was endorsed by the AMA house of delegates at the St. Louis meeting in December, have stooped to dubious and what might even be called un-American propaganda.

The AMA is seeking to raise a fund to fight the administration proposal by levying a $25 assessment on each of 140,000 members. There are growing signs of resistance to this assessment. Many doctors are acutely aware of the trouble their patients have in meeting medical costs.

Like the average middle-class American, they would go for a sensible proposal having as its base a voluntary and independent association of doctor and citizen.

The Republicans are coming up with their own health and medical plan. They have a magnificent opportunity to show that the choice is not between do-nothingism, clinging to things as they are, and on the other hand, a federal blanket covering all of medicine.

Frankly Speaking

'Dough' Placed First

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — Looks like "dough" comes first when college boys pick a job.

You mean they'd put pay ahead of doing a public service, like working for the government? Sure.

That's what the Hoover Commission found after sending questions to 3,448 seniors in 94 colleges.

The commission is headed by former President Herbert Hoover. It's been working 16 months to find ways of making the government better.

And it told Congress it learned these things from questioning the college seniors:

Over half the seniors said salary is the most important thing to them in choosing a job. And the pay in the government, they said, isn't as good as in private business.

That fact isn't new, of course, but it's one of the main reasons why only one out of four of the seniors said he was interested in a government job.

And what's the second most important thing to the seniors in looking for a job?

Almost half said chances for promotion. And on that one, too, they think private business is better than the government.

* * *

Some Advantages Seen.

ON THREE less important counts they said government work was better than private business.

Their job in the government would be safer; the government would give them more chance for public service; and there would be more benefits like leave, or time off, and retirement pay.

This is one of the reasons why the commission told Congress it had better do something about making government jobs more attractive.

It said the government can't hope to move on an even keel, with good spirit among its employes, unless it can attract some of the best college men and women graduating each year.

This will give an idea of what a merry-go-round the government is in hiring and keeping people

In 1939 only 900,000 people were working for the government. The war came and by 1945 there were 3,700,000 people on the payroll. There are still 2,100,000.

This drop from 3,700,000 was due to the government's getting back on a peacetime basis and dropping temporary, or wartime, workers.

But—since 1945 the government has released or lost 3,900,000 employes and hired 2,800,000.

When you add the 3,900,000 dropped since 1945 to the 2,800,000 hired since then, you wind up with a total of 6,700,000 people who moved in and out of government jobs in only three years.

This is a pretty sad story for people who may be thinking of trying to make a career out of government work.

You can see why from this report of the commission:

Almost nine out of 10 new appointments to government jobs are replacements for those who have quit.

Among the quits—and this hurts the government—were a lot of key people and executives. Why did they get out? The commission asked over 600 of them and got answers from 300.

The average pay for the 300, while they were in the government, was $7,767 after an average of 13 1-3 years in the government.

They gave these reasons as main ones for leaving:

Almost half said "Not enough pay." And almost 60 per cent said there was less chance for advancement in the government than in private business.

Timely Editorial

Wise Words True Today.

Says Ralph Waldo Emerson in his essay on "Compensation:"

"The farmer imagines power and place are fine things. But the President has paid dear for his White House. It has commonly cost him all his peace and the best of his manly attributes. To preserve for a short time so conspicuous an appearance before the world, he is content to eat dust before the real masters who stand erect behind the throne."

That was written more than a hundred years ago. Then the powers behind the throne were business and political leaders. Now they are leaders of blocs—farm blocs and labor blocs. But the bitter truth spoken by the greatest of American philosophers is still true.—Cleveland Press.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Congress Moves Slowly On Labor Bill

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

THERE are signs that the labor law struggle in Congress will last until May and possibly into June. That means the Taft-Hartley Law probably will stay on the books in its present form—with its closed shop ban, 80-day emergency strike injunctions, and all the rest—beyond the annual spring expiration date of hundreds of labor-management contracts. Among these are the steel industry contracts.

The second installment of public hearings on the administration's labor bill got underway last week. The original plan had been to end them February 10.

Before next Thursday, the Senate labor committee will hear more than 30 industry and labor witnesses, who will defend and attack Taft-Hartley provisions.

"Stop-Watch" Rules.

The hearings are conducted under "stop-watch" procedure—a rare device. By agreement, the Democratic and Republican sides will divide questioning time equally. Until last week, the five GOP members had questioned the witnesses much more extensively than the eight Democrats.

The Democrats want speed in getting the administration bill to the floor of the Senate for debate. It was introduced by Sen. Elbert Thomas (D-Utah), the committee chairman, after being prepared by Truman aides and approved by the President.

The bill calls for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act and re-enactment of the Wagner Act of 1935 with several additions which Mr. Truman proposed.

Debate Set for March.

The Senate debate probably will start some time in March and last possibly three or four weeks. The House may have its own debate in the meantime, or conceivably wait until the Senate comes up with a bill. Democratic strategy is still uncertain on this point.

In any event, the final version of the bill undoubtedly will be written by a Senate-House conference committee. That may take a few more weeks.

Labor Frets at Delay.

Labor leaders still are expressing confidence that the Taft-Hartley Law will be repealed. But privately some of them are worried and upset over the delay.

Significantly, the AFL declared in its monthly magazine, out last week, that if the outcome is to be in accord with the people's mandate as expressed at the polls, "organized labor and all other friends of liberty and justice will have to stay on the alert."

The AFL also claimed that the same "big business" lobbyists "who put over the Taft-Hartley Act two years ago" are again "lurking" about the Capitol.

At Home

Purposes of Pact.

What western Europe needs most now, defense planners say, is more arms and coordination of military training rather than more soldiers.

The military experts drafting the proposed North Atlantic security pact do not propose to urge nations still facing terrific burdens of postwar reconstruction to build up huge standing armies. Instead, they will be encouraged to equip their present forces with the best supplies and training possible under the circumstances.

Now and for some time to come, the role of the United States in the alliance probably will be chiefly that of military adviser and manufacturer of weapons.

* * *

Lingering Costs of War.

The cost of war is not over when peace is declared. armies demobilized and the dead repatriated. It has just begun. Long after war bonds have been retired and all the armaments outmoded, the government goes on paying pensions to the veterans and their dependents.

The United States is still paying for wars that happened more than a century ago.

The Veterans Administration paid out $22,440 in pesions last year to the heirs of 36 veterans of the Mexican War, fought in 1836.

The government paid out $757,444 to 710 living veterans and $1,135,869 to heirs and dependents of 2,090 dead veterans of the Indian Wars which started before the Civil War.

* * *

Population Growth.

The census bureau has forecast gains in population and school enrollment in the years to come.

By 1960, the bureau says,, the nation will have 155,745,000 persons. compared with the 1940 census of 131,669,000 and the 1948 estimate of 146,221,000.

The school age population (roughly 5 to 17) is expected to jump faster than the total population between 1947 and 1955.

The rise in grade school enrollmen has been foreshadowed by the relatively large number of births in the early and middle 40's.

The increase in numbers of aged persons (65 and over) is estimated at about 19 per cent between 1947 and 1955.

New "Best Seller."

The government has issued a new booklet which it thinks is most likely to rival its current best seller "Infant Care."

The new one is "Your Child from Six to Twelve." It completes the Children's Bureau series of five bulletins for parents on child care, from the prenatal period through adolescence.

The booklet on infant care, best known of the series, has passed the 23 million mark.

Abroad

Now It Can Be Told.

There was plenty of friction among the Big Four in deciding how to try the Nazi war criminals at Nuernberg.

But, reports Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson, the chief U. S. representative, the compromise arrived at shows that despite differing judicial systems "our fundamental concepts of fair procedure are not in hopeless conflict."

One difficulty that Jackson mentions is the Russian concept that a court is one of the organs of government power. The Soviet attitude, he says, is that a tribunal is a "weapon in the hands of the ruling class to safeguard its interests."

Portugal Votes.

Portugal held its first contested presidential election in 22 years last Sunday, despite the opposition candidate's making an 11th-hour attempt to withdraw.

The 79-year-old government candidate won more than 75 per cent of the unofficial returns. The official result will not be disclosed for a week.

The victor is Antonio Oscar de Fragoso Carmona. He has been president since 1926. He had the support of Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, the real political power in the country.

The political opposition was made up of the Democratic and Liberal parties which have struggled along for years under the hard-fisted regime of Salazar.

Quotes

George Gallup, defending public opinion polls: "We should not be assigned the role of experts. We should report the facts and let the people be the experts."

Dwight D. Eisenhower, soldier-educator, in a speech on freedom: "There is a kind of dictatorship that can come through a creeping paralysis of thought, readiness to accept paternalistic measures by the government and surrender of our own responsibilities. I believe it is things such as that we must watch today."

In Short

Passed: By the House, unanimously, a bill to restart the Freedom Train traveling for two more years; the bill now goes to the Senate.

Unveiled: The first statue of Abraham Lincoln on the soil of a former Confederate state, 84 years after the close of the Civil War, at Harrogate, Tenn.

Proposed: By Walter Reuther, CIO United Auto Workers president, that the nation's surplus aircraft plants be converted to the mass production of 20 million prefabricated houses.

Challenged: By the U. S., Russia in the United Nations, to allow an impartial study of American charges that Russians have 8,000,000 to 14,000,000 slave laborers.

Farmer's Diary

Seeing While Walking

By CALVIN A. BYERS

IT IS pleasant to walk along the skid road near the woods, on a spring-like day, when the sun shines against the hill and enjoyable warmth seems to radiate there.

Up the slope, through the orchard, I noticed straight beaten paths all stretching eastward. It seemed as though the wild folks had laid out an allotment all their own.

Curiously I followed one trail far to the east, noticing that small green shoots had been bitten off short. Sometimes the trails crossed at right angles, going directly up and down hill. Tips of outer branches of young apple trees were nipped close. The trunks were left intact, since I had wrapped each with protective paper, and I was surprised at how much girth each tree had gained.

* * *

MOTHER Cottontail, heavy with young, ambles through the mazes of this labyrinth, grazing upon fresh green grass. Dipping into some secret hollow, she disappears into a protected burrow where, no doubt, the rabbit nursery is ready for her spring brood.

Lined with her own fur, pulled from her breast and flanks, this snug haven is the first home of her hairless newborn litter. The dusky hue of her fur gives protection as she moves unseen through the tall grass and brush, unmolested by dogs who do not trail pregnant or nursing mothers.

* * *

WOODY WOODCHUCK has his burrow beneath an old apple stump, with three openings farther uphill, through which he can make an exit in haste if necessary. He, too, frequents the trails of the labyrinthine allotment, when days are warm enough. Mother Woodchuck hibernating now to await the spring, lies safe in the underground chamber. A mound of earth is near the door, on which it is customary for woodchucks to mount and take a look around before venturing far from home.

Later on I shall see Mother Woodchuck followed by five little balls of fur, ambling down the trail toward where the clover is thickest.

Other rodents—jumping mice, whitefooted mice, field mice—know their way about the trails through the grass and brambles. These are innocent of injury toward mankind, since they carry no disease, and belong in a different class from the rats and mice introduced into this country from Europe by the early settlers.

Bird life is plentiful about the trails. Owls find good hunting; quails and pheasants scoot through; hawks and buzzards sometimes swoop down to make a meal. Nesting birds flit from shrub to shrub—robins, mourning doves, jays, and goldfinches.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"It certainly isn't worth tryin' to sneak in now without waking up my wife!"

Dave Boone Says:

WHEN asked what he thought of recent happenings in Hungary Henry Wallace replied. "That's a loaded question." And when asked pointedly if he thought Cardinal Mindszenty was given a fair trial he said, "It is impossible to tell at this distance." That's what I call registering the low temperature of 1949 in the face of something that made most people boil.

* * *

I was under the impression that complete news of the charges and the arrest, the short, swift trial in violation of all our standards of justice and the "confessions" in the orthodox Kremlin routine had reached America extra fast, regardless of the distance.

* * *

Maybe Henry would find the speedy conviction of Protestant ministers and rabbis in the Soviet orbit too far away for him to form any conclusions, too.

* * *

Well, if distance was the test of reactions by the human heart and if pity and sympathy were controlled by considerations of mileage, this would be a pretty cold world. Im sure glad it's warmer than that. And so are countless millions of its inhabitants.

Judge Cracks Down on Auto Thieves

Poor Man's True Wealth Is Wife With a Heart of 24 Karat Gold

ONCE UPON a time there was a man who learned how to make gold.

He was a poor bookkeeper, tired of poverty and weary of keeping other men's books.

"Why can't I learn to make gold?" he asked himself one day. "Man can do anything he sets his mind to. The Germans make butter from coal, we make bombs from atoms."

He didn't want to make enough gold to throw the world's money systems out of kilter. No, he intended to keep his discovery—when he made it—a secret. He just planned to turn out enough gold for his own modest needs. A million here, a million there.

So he went to a department store and bought himself a chemistry set. He wore out the seat of his pants at the public library reading volumes on alchemy and the transmutation of metals. Finally he decided that the easiest thing to turn into gold was quicksilver.

"All I have to do is find a way to make it jell and turn yellow," he said.

He set up a laboratory in his basement and went to work. Evening after evening he labored there alone past midnight. Feverishly he stewed up stinking messes of chemicals until his home smelled like a glue factory. Into each batch he hopefully poured a little quicksilver—with no result.

His quest became a mania. He quit his job after the 3,001st unsuccessful experiment. After that he stayed in the basement night and day. He grew thin and haggard.

One morning his wife came into the laboratory as he was about to begin his 5,999th experiment. He was out of fancy chemicals and had only kitchen ingredients left.

He poured the last of his quicksilver into a mortar. He put in a pinch of salt and a spoonful of baking soda. Idly he stirred this batch with his finger. Then his wife said quietly:

"There isn't a penny left in the baby's bank, dear. There isn't a scrap of food in the house, and I know you are hungry."

The tears brimmed into her eyes. The man looked up and said:

"Why, Honey, you're crying."

He reached over with his blackened finger to wipe a tear from her cheek. As he touched it the tear turned to a bright hard yellow.

"Gold!" screamed the man. "Gold at last!"

He ran next door and borrowed an onion. He peeled it and held it up to his wife's eyes.

"Cry," he said. "Cry some more! I hate to do this, Honey, but maybe it is tears of pain that make gold. I have to know."

The pain tears came. He let the small globules of his wife's agony fall into mortar. Nothing. It was the mixture as before.

The man gave a mighty oath of despair. He picked up the mortar and crashed it down on the stone table, smashing it to fragments. And then he ran upstairs.

The loyal wife watched him go, and pity for him replaced her pain. She bent over the table and wept for him alone—the husband she loved.

And as they fell into the spilled mixture, drop by drop, the tears turned to the color of the morning sun—the pure bright gold of compassion.

Moral: A wife with a 24-karat heart is the poor man's true wealth.

Killer Stabs Woman After Hotel Tryst

Man Escapes From Bellboy

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The partly clad body of a woman was found slashed to death early today in a blood-spattered room of the Waldo hotel, a hostelry at 322 N. High street.

A bell boy reported he pursued a man, who fled from her room, but he gave up the chase after the man threatened him.

The unidentified woman, between 30 and 40 years of age registered at 2:30 a. m. with a man. He wrote "Mr. and Mrs. A. Warren" on the register.

Night Manager James Mullins said both appeared to be intoxicated.

Coleman Merchant, the bell boy, reported he discovered the slaying at 5:30 a. m. when a man ran from the room.

The woman, clad only in brassiere and underslip, had been stabbed several times in the neck and throat; twice in the left side, and twice between the breasts.

On the bed with the body was a wedding ring.

Coroner Robert A. Evans described her as "homely," five feet four inches tall, weighing about 120 pounds, and having greyish brown hair.

The bed, window sill and curtains were spattered with blood.

The bell boy said the man he pursued from the room, No. 608, had a 12 hour growth of beard; was 45 to 50 years old, five feet six inches tall, weighed 150 pounds, and wore a blue navy jacket and blood-stained shirt.

The slaying recalled to police the unsolved death of Mona McBride, who was found slashed to death in the Ohio hotel, next door to the Waldo, last March 31.

Miss McBride, too, had registered with a man, and they had been drinking.

Scouts Stage First Dance

Mansfield Senior Girl Scouts staged their first dance in successful style last night at the Grotto hall.

Approximately 35 couples danced to the music of Dick Butts' orchestra. Red and white streamers, huge red hearts, pasteboard cupids and colorful balloons decorted the big hall.

During intermission an exhibition dance was held by courtesy of the Arthur Murray Dance studio and punch and sandwiches were served.

Chairman of the dance was Mary Alice Biddle. Her committee chairmen were Lanny Carr, decorations; Pat Smith, refreshments; Evelyn Goon, invitations; Marilyn Klee, finance, and Carolyn McGinty, program.

Mrs. Charles Orr supervised the dance and troop leaders served as chaperones.

Still Seeks Mayor Post

Canaday Pushes Bid In Court

POMEROY—(UP)—Delmar A. Canady will go before Common Pleas Judge Edgar Ervin next week in his fight to regain the job of mayor of this village.

Village officials late yesterday filed an answer to Canady's action asking the court to set aside a restraining order obtained by Acting Mayor Sidney Spencer.

The village, in its answer, said it was not testing the legality of the title to office but that the order restraining Canady from taking over the mayor's post by force was asked to protect Spencer against interference from Canady until title to the office is determined.

Canady was removed from office last November by the then Governor Thomas J. Herbert on charges of misconduct in office.

He resigned the office Nov. 29, but claimed later the resignation was not legal because he resigned while under suspension.

Cows Invade City Airport

Two cows—which weren't interested in flying—but in soy beans and grass, wandered onto the north side of the Mansfield airport about 3 p. m. yesterday.

Thomas A. Ansel, manager of TWA here, called the sheriff's office and later contacted the owner of the two stray bovines. The farmer and his two sons, who live two miles north of the airport, arrived and led the stray animals homeward about 6:30 p. m.

Ensel said the cows stayed at the north side of the airport, near his home. Appearance of the bovines came as quite a surprise, but there was no danger "in any way, shape or form," Ansel said. The cows stuck to their grazing and were not sufficiently curious to wander down towards the runways.

The airport has a fence along the north side and Ansel surmised the break through which the strangers entered probably occured where workers are putting in the new section of State Route 13.

Widow Dies In Hospital

Mrs. Susan Muth, 88, widow of Henry Muth, died this morning at Madison hospital following several weeks illness.

Mrs. Muth, whose home was at 832 Forest drive, was born April 5, 1860 in Mansfield and spent her entire life in this vicinity. She was an active member of the St. Paul Lutheran church.

Surviving are three sons, Edward, William and Earl Muth; four daughters, Mrs. Malcolm Hardy, Mrs. Bertha Hamblin, Mrs. Lester Vaughn and Mrs. Foster Ost, all of Mansfield; two brothers, Dr. William Culp of Fort Wayne, Ind., and Atty. Frank Culp of Mansfield; one sister, Mrs. Mary Muth of Mansfield, R. D. 5; 15 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren. Mr. Muth died 16 years ago today.

The body is at the Wappner funeral home where services will be held Monday at 3 p. m. conducted by Rev. John G. Gensel. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

Burglars Break Into School Building

Burglars broke into Brinkerhoff school last night, but apparently nothing was stolen, police said today.

A piece of glass was broken out of a window on the north side of the building. In one of the upstairs rooms contents of the desks were littered about the floor.

Richland Promised New Game Warden

Richland county will have a game warden within six weeks, promised by H. A. "Buck" Rider, conservation commissioner of Ohio, after Mansfield delegates to the 41st annual League of Ohio Sportsmen convention leaped into the meeting last night with gripes that Richland county has been without a warden since last May.

Gus Miller, speaking for the Richland County Fish and Game Protective association, created quite a furor and gained a strong round of applause with his demands for a local game warden. His time on the floor was cut off by the forum moderator, Frank Atwood, but not until he had gained his point.

Dr. J. W. Ogden, of Hayesville, was among those honored at the "Old Timers' Banquet." Ogden was presented his hunting and fishing diploma by Charles L. Long, Canton wild life expert.

Richland county representatives were headed by Jim Burkhart, president of the Richland County Fish and Game Protective association. Others in the Mansfield group were Ed Sites, Thomas Blizzard, Lowell Hamilton, Gladys Tucker, and Mrs. Burkhart.

Due to the rise in hunting and fishing violations, convention spokesmen proposed that game licenses should be patterned after driving licenses, so that a violator of game regulations could have his license revoked.

This proposed licensing system would also require an examination for getting a license if the hunter had never had a license, or had allowed his old one to lapse.

Trucker Helps Save Trucker

William R. Myers, 106½ North Main street, today was credited by Oberlin police with saving the life of Peter Christoff, 31, of Norwalk, whose truck caught fire when it collided with one driven by Myers.

Myers was said to have leaped from his truck and dragged Christoff from his truck cab. Christoff had suffered a broken arm and facial cuts in the accident. Myers then pulled his truck away from the flaming vehicle.

Myers is the son of Mrs. B. B. Myers of the Main street address, and is employed driving trucks out of Toledo.

RAILROAD SUES TRUCKER

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The Pennsylvania railroad sued a Canton trucking firm Friday for $75,000 on a charge that one of the concern's trucks derailed a train at a Uhrichsville, O., crossing last October.

Grand Jury Requests Aid

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Gov. Frank J. Lausche may decide today on an Athens county grand jury request for special prosecution in the Eleanor Gifford murder case.

He was asked by the grand jury yesterday to assign the state attorney general or an assistant to act as special prosecutor in the case.

The governor said he was considering the matter and may give a decision today.

The body of the 52-year-old Episcopal church worker was found in the home near Athens Jan. 3. She had been beaten to death.

Two youths, Harry Dodds, jr. 20, of New Straitsville, and Pvt. Grover E. Rawlings, 18, of Ft. Knox, Ky., have been bound over to the grand jury in the case. A third man, a former Columbus bartender, inplicated in the slaying, is sought by authorities.

There was no immediate explanation as to why the grand jury had asked the governor to intervene in the case.

Man Jailed After Cutting

Melvin Swarn, 25, of 191 North Diamond street, who suffered a deep knife cut on the left side of his face last night, was held in city jail today for investigation when he refused to identify his assailant for officers.

Swarn was taken to General hospital at 12:18 a. m. today by Nick Kondes, Veterans cab driver. Police said Swarn had been drinking and that he swore he "would kill somebody" when he left the hospital. He was treated and taken to city jail.

Furloughing 2,521

BALTIMORE — (AP) — The Baltimore and Ohio railroad yesterday ordered a five-day furlough late this month for 2,521 of its shop employes throughout the system. A continued decline in freight business was given as the reason.

REMINDER OF HOME—

A former Mansfield man, I. E. McKeehen, now living in Harlingen, Tex., sends along a clipping telling of the coming dedication of "Port Mansfield" at Redfish Bay, Texas, which reminded him of his old home town and Mansfield's airport. Plans are being made to dedicate Port Mansfield on April 23 during the Willacy county onion fiesta. Gov. Beauford Jester and other important state and air officials are expected to be on hand for the ceremonies, according to the clipping, taken from the Valley Morning Star of Harlingen. McKeehen said he wasn't sure why the new port was named "Mansfield."

BACKED HIS ATHLETES—

He hadn't run away from home, police concluded today. He just wanted to root for the team. Last night police received a call that a 14-year-old Sturges avenue youth was missing from home. Police broadcast a description of the boy. This morning early, the boy came back home, tired and quite disappointed. He had ridden his "whizzer bike" to Massillon last night to see the Mansfield Tygers tangle with the Massillon Tigers. His team lost by one point. Final score of the game: 54-53, Massillon's favor.

Daytime Toll Leads January Traffic Report

If you were in a residential district in the daytime on any Monday in January you were more in danger of being involved in a traffic accident than in any similar period during the month.

Of the 154 accidents last month 30, the highest single day amount, occurred on Monday, 87 during the daytime, and 76 in residential districts.

Through Jan. 31, the report shows 17 persons were injured this year as against 14 last year in a total of 142 accidents for the same period.

K. of C. Burns Mortgage

Mortgage burning ceremonies will be held at 8 p.m. today at the Knights of Columbus home, Sherman avenue and Park avenue west.

It will mark the first anniversary in the new home, which members purchased Jan. 15, 1948 and into which they moved on Feb. 7, 1948.

Tonight at least 300 are expected to be present for the stag smoker and ceremonies, according to James F Carrigan, grand knight of the lodge.

Following the mortgage burning, there will be refreshments and a social evening.

Warning Issued In Court

Clevelander Sent to Pen

Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch yesterday declared war on the increasing number of automobile thefts in Richland county as he sentenced Henry Robert Banks, 26, of Cleveland, to one to 20 years in the Ohio state penitentiary for operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

Judge Kalbfleisch said "there are too many auto theft cases in Richland county" and asserted he was going to crack down on prisoners who came into his court on theft charges.

Four other persons were given five-year probationary sentences when they appeared in common pleas court yesterday. Two indicted defendants on grand larceny charges pleaded not guilty and waived jury trial.

Banks recently completed a 32-month sentence in a federal prison for assault with a dangerous weapon and had a bad juvenile record in Georgia, according to Judge Kalbfleisch. He was indicted by the January grand jury for stealing a car owned by Garold West on Jan. 24.

Miles Marion Skaggs and Frank Skaggs, indicted for grand larceny, will be tried in March by a panel of three judges. Two judges will be appointed by the Ohio Supreme court to serve with Kalbfleisch on the panel.

Three persons charged with breaking and entering and a third with forgery were placed on probation for five years. The defendants who took property were ordered to make restitution.

Placed on probation after they pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering were Walter Leroy Phillips, 30, of 335 Cedar street, and Talmage Gene Mullins, 20, of Mifflin, and Earl Welo Bishop, 31, of 173 South Main street, for breaking and entering and carrying concealed weapons. Bernice Janet Currens, 31, of 81 Waring avenue, was cited on a forgery charge.

Credit Men Plan Panel

The north central Ohio division of the National Association of Credit Men will hold a credit panel at the Sky club, Monday at 6:30 p. m.

The round-table discission will be led by R. D. Hurl, of the Shelby Salesbook company; R. D. Mayer, of the Flxible company in Loudonville, and A. A. Doerrer, of the Dominion Electric corporation of Mansfield.

G. R. Cashell, vice president of the association, has invited all interested credit executives to attend the meeting. Those planning to attend have been asked to contact E. J. Osborne.

"Highlights of the 1948 World Series", a movie, will be shown after the meeting.

Brother of City Residents Dies

Word was received here of the death of Alex J. Hocquet, 62, in San Francisco, Calif., Friday after a brief illness.

Mr. Hocquet, brother of Edmund J. and Miss Elvera Hocquet, 132 Boughton avenue, was born in Belgium, June 3, 1886 and had lived in this country for 57 years. He was a librarian at the San Francisco public library.

The brother and sister are the only survivors.

The body will be taken to Point Marion, Pa., for funeral services and burial. Arrangements are in charge of the Finefrock funeral home.

Mrs. Ford Gives Chalk Talk

A special feature of the revival services at the Open Bible "The Ninety and Nine," by Mrs. church Sunday night will be the chalk portrayal of the hymn, Dorothea Ford, wife of Dr. Russell Ford, who is conducting evangelistic services at the church.

During the chalk talk, Mrs. Margaret Cole will sing.

The revival services will continue indefinitely, Rev. Earl Lee, pastor, has announced. Dr. Ford is connected with the Galilean Bible seminary and divinity school located at Higgins Bay, Piseco Lake, N. Y. He is a member of the faculty department of eschatology, a member of the advisory committee and a life member of the post-graduate department.

175 Hear Galion Pastor At Methodist Father-Son Dinner

"Religion is an imperative, not an elective," declared Dr. Norman Summerville of Galion in an address last night at the annual Father and Son banquet of Central Methodist church.

In his talk entitled "Dreams, Occupations and Religion." Dr. Summerville stated that too many people now feel that religion is a matter of choice, being something they can accept or reject. Men's dreams of achievemnts and their work throughout life remain incomplete without religion, he contended.

Nearly 175 men and boys were present at the banquet, the largest of its kind on record at the church. It was given under sponsorship of Methodist Men, the name adopted this year for the men's organization previously called the Methodist Brotherhood.

At the close of the banquet, Virt A. Simpson, new president of Methodist Men, opened the program introducing new officers and committee chairmen, and outlining goals for the organization this year.

E. Ray Jenkins, program chairman, then took charge of the meeting. After a period devoted to singing and short talks, he introduced Dr. Summerville, the main speaker of the evening.

Drive carefully tomorrow—and it's too soon to drain the anti-freeze out of the radiator.

Here it comes again—this time in association with the Philadelphia transportation strike: "These are the times that try men's soles."

"Know your laws," says an American who has had plenty of trouble with them, and it would be hard to find better advice. Ignorance of the law is no excuse for breaking it.

That Park Avenue East Underpass

TROUBLE over flooding of the Park avenue east subway at the Pennsylvania railroad has extended through the more than twenty years since the underpass was constructed.

During all of that time something has been said, after each heavy rain, about correcting the condition, but nothing has been done.

Various ways have been suggested to prevent accumulation of water in the subway, which obviously has insufficient unimpeded outlet, as explained by E. W. Davis, superintendent of streets.

This seems to be an engineering problem, rather than one for laymen to work out, and the views of councilmen, unless supported by the recommendation of a qualified engineer, are of questionable value.

It may be hoped, however, that present discussion will result in some action, rather than allowing this annoying situation to continue year after year.

Insurance That Pays Doctor Bills

ONE of the basic implications in arguments on behalf of compulsory government health insurance is that the great bulk of Americans are almost totally incapable of dealing with illness when it strikes. That implication is not supported by facts.

According to one authoritative report, more than 52,000,000 Americans now have hospital insurance; 26,000,000 have surgical insurance, and 9,000,000 have medical insurance. In addition, 31,000,000 have disability benefit insurance.

An article in the Christian Science Monitor says that "about half of the 30,000,000 American workers who come under unemployment compensation laws are getting added protection, now, through voluntary programs that insure against wage loss, while employed, due to illness or other disability."

This represents remarkable progress, particularly in the light of the fact that voluntary prepayment medical plans had to pass through a trial and error period at the beginning, and did not get going on a big scale until a relatively few years ago.

So That School Children May Know

THAT'S a good idea—giving those Junior high school pupils a chance to see the inside of the Ohio state reformatory, as a part of their social science study. While it might be impractical, there would be an advantage in giving all school children between the ages of 12 and 16 an opportunity to have a look around the interior of a penal institution such as the reformatory or the state penitentiary, as the impression is likely to be a lasting one.

There is a thought, too, in the possibility of the juvenile court prescribing an inspection of the reformatory as a part of procedure in cases of juvenile delinquency in which a child is reprimanded and sent home, without other punishment.

An old subject for debate was whether people are more influenced by "fear of punishment or hope of reward," and whatever the answer may be, it is only fair to young people that they be fully enlightened on matters that will become of concern in later years.

Legality of Contracts Questioned

THERE is a possibility of far-reaching consequences in all organized professional sports in the suggestion that they may be brought within the scope of federal laws regulating interstate commerce.

A United States court of appeals in New York has ruled that organized baseball is perhaps in interstate commerce. The question has been raised before, but the reasoning of the court now is that radio and television broadcasts have introduced a new element.

The ruling was made in litigation involving the practice which requires players to work for whatever club owns their contracts, and prevents them from accepting more attractive offers from other clubs. Professional football, basketball and hockey use the same kind of contract.

It is thought possible that if organized sports are brought under the jurisdiction of federal anti-trust laws this contract practice might be ruled out as a restraint of trade.

Treating Alcoholism as Disease

ALCOHOLISM is neither a crime nor a misdemeanor; it is a disease. This imperfectly recognized truth is repeated by the Massachusetts Commission on Alcoholism, which finds that there are 30,000 confirmed drunkards in the state, and 90,000 more who are excessive drinkers.

The time is approaching when a drunkard will not be fined in police court and allowed to go his way, but will be turned over for psychiatric treatment, to a state agency or perhaps to an unofficial organization like Alcoholics Anonymous.

It seems that the Pennsylvania legislature is considering the idea of designating a "state dog" and that there's a similar proposal in Ohio—which surely must go to show something or other.

One calculator estimates that the "cold war" will cost us a cool 25 billion dollars this year.

Washington Calling

Medical Service Plans

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — The health plan presented by the American Medical Association is tragically late. It is an eleventh-hour death-bed conversion, and because it is that the sincerity and the intention of the AMA will be questioned.

The plan was made public as the Truman administration is working on a comprehensive national health insurance scheme to recommend to Congress. The health insurance bill will go up to Capitol Hill in the near future with the President's okay.

While they have heard propaganda on both sides, and particularly from the AMA, most Americans know little about health insurance. Whether there is any real sentiment in the country for such a widespread program is doubtful.

But what most Americans do know is this: Medical care is so costly that in any adequate form it is beyond the reach of millions. The very poor in cities where there are free clinics and free hospitals can be cared for without cost. The rich can pay their doctor and hospital bills.

In between is the broad band of middle-class Americans for whom a long illness may mean ruin. For millions too proud to accept charity medical costs are prohibitively high. These are the Americans who have looked hopefully for some decent and honorable plan that would give them medical care at a price they could pay.

* * *

Group Insurance Plans.

ONE METHOD is the prepaid, group medical care plan. Families formed in voluntary groups each pay a fixed sum per month to cover doctor and hospital bills. But the AMA has not encouraged such plans. The public has had the impression that the medical association has set itself against any change. Such a reasonable man as Gov. Earl Warren has been denounced for his proposed California statewide health insurance plan.

In the absence of any concerted movement for a gradual betterment of health standards and a lowering of medical costs on a co-operative or group basis, a federal measure was certain to be put forward.

The tragedy is that the AMA might have pioneered in discovering a grass-roots, voluntary, truly American way to meet the problem.

Instead, until the 12-point health plan of this week, the AMA has devoted its resources to attacking federal health insurance as socialism. Agencies such as the National Physicians committee, which was endorsed by the AMA house of delegates at the St. Louis meeting in December, have stooped to dubious and what might even be called un-American propaganda.

The AMA is seeking to raise a fund to fight the administration proposal by levying a $25 assessment on each of 140,000 members. There are growing signs of resistance to this assessment. Many doctors are acutely aware of the trouble their patients have in meeting medical costs.

Like the average middle-class American, they would go for a sensible proposal having as its base a voluntary and independent association of doctor and citizen.

The Republicans are coming up with their own health and medical plan. They have a magnificent opportunity to show that the choice is not between do-nothingism, clinging to things as they are, and on the other hand, a federal blanket covering all of medicine.

Frankly Speaking

'Dough' Placed First

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — Looks like "dough" comes first when college boys pick a job.

You mean they'd put pay ahead of doing a public service, like working for the government? Sure.

That's what the Hoover Commission found after sending questions to 3,448 seniors in 94 colleges.

The commission is headed by former President Herbert Hoover. It's been working 16 months to find ways of making the government better.

And it told Congress it learned these things from questioning the college seniors.

Over half the seniors said salary is the most important thing to them in choosing a job. And the pay in the government, they said, isn't as good as in private business.

That fact isn't new, of course, but it's one of the main reasons why only one out of four of the seniors said he was interested in a government job.

And what's the second most important thing to the seniors in looking for a job?

Almost half said chances for promotion. And on that one, too, they think private business is better than the government.

* * *

Some Advantages Seen.

ON THREE less important counts they said government work was better than private business:

Their job in the government would be safer; the government would give them more chance for public service; and there would be more benefits like leave, or time off, and retirement pay.

This is one of the reasons why the commission told Congress it had better do something about making government jobs more attractive.

It said the government can't hope to move on an even keel, with good spirit among its employes, unless it can attract some of the best college men and women graduating each year.

This will give an idea of what a merry-go-round the government is in hiring and keeping people:

In 1939 only 900,000 people were working for the government. The war came and by 1945 there were 3,700,000 people on the payroll. There are still 2,100,000.

This drop from 3,700,000 was due to the government's getting back on a peacetime basis and dropping temporary, or wartime, workers.

But—since 1945 the government has released or lost 3,900,000 employes and hired 2,800,000.

When you add the 3,900,000 dropped since 1945 to the 2,800,000 hired since then, you wind up with a total of 6,700,000 people who moved in and out of government jobs in only three years.

This is a pretty sad story for people who may be thinking of trying to make a career out of government work.

You can see why from this report of the commission:

Almost nine out of 10 new appointments to government jobs are replacements for those who have quit.

Among the quits—and this hurts the government—were a lot of key people and executives. Why did they get out? The commission asked over 600 of them and got answers from 300.

The average pay for the 300, while they were in the government, was $7,767 after an average of 13 1-3 years in the government.

They gave these reasons as main ones for leaving:

Almost half said "Not enough pay." And almost 60 per cent said there was less chance for advancement in the government than in private business.

Timely Editorial

Wise Words True Today.

Says Ralph Waldo Emerson in his essay on "Compensation:"

"The farmer imagines power and place are fine things. But the President has paid dear for his White House. It has commonly cost him all his peace and the best of his manly attributes. To preserve for a short time so conspicuous an appearance before the world, he is content to eat dust before the real masters who stand erect behind the throne."

That was written more than a hundred years ago. Then the powers behind the throne were business and political leaders. Now they are leaders of blocs—farm blocs and labor blocs. But the bitter truth spoken by the greatest of American philosophers is still true.—Cleveland Press.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Congress Moves Slowly On Labor Bill

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

THERE are signs that the labor law struggle in Congress will last until May and possibly into June. That means the Taft-Hartley Law probably will stay on the books in its present form—with its closed shop ban, 80-day emergency strike injunctions, and all the rest—beyond the annual spring expiration date of hundreds of labor-management contracts. Among these are the steel industry contracts.

The second installment of public hearings on the administration's labor bill got underway last week. The original plan had been to end them February 10.

Before next Thursday, the Senate labor committee will hear more than 30 industry and labor witnesses, who will defend and attack Taft-Hartley provisions.

"Stop-Watch" Rules.

The hearings are conducted under "stop-watch" procedure—a rare device. By agreement, the Democratic and Republican sides will divide questioning time equally. Until last week, the five GOP members had questioned the witnesses much more extensively than the eight Democrats.

The Democrats want speed in getting the administration bill to the floor of the Senate for debate. It was introduced by Sen. Elbert Thomas (D-Utah), the committee chairman, after being prepared by Truman aides and approved by the President.

The bill calls for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act and re-enactment of the Wagner Act of 1935 with several additions which Mr. Truman proposed.

Debate Set for March.

The Senate debate probably will start some time in March and last possibly three or four weeks. The House may have its own debate in the meantime, or conceivably wait until the Senate comes up with a bill. Democratic strategy is still uncertain on this point.

In any event, the final version of the bill undoubtedly will be written by a Senate-House conference committee. That may take a few more weeks.

Labor Frets at Delay.

Labor leaders still are expressing confidence that the Taft-Hartley Law will be repealed. But privately some of them are worried and upset over the delay.

Significantly, the AFL declared in its monthly magazine, out last week, that if the outcome is to be in accord with the people's mandate as expressed at the polls, "organized labor and all other friends of liberty and justice will have to stay on the alert."

The AFL also claimed that the same "big business" lobbyists "who put over the Taft-Hartley Act two years ago" are again "lurking" about the Capitol.

At Home

Purposes of Pact.

What western Europe needs most now, defense planners say, is more arms and coordination of military training rather than more soldiers.

The military experts drafting the proposed North Atlantic security pact do not propose to urge nations still facing terrific burdens of postwar reconstruction to build up huge standing armies. Instead, they will be encouraged to equip their present forces with the best supplies and training possible under the circumstances.

Now and for some time to come, the role of the United States in the alliance probably will be chiefly that of military adviser and manufacturer of weapons.

* * *

Lingering Costs of War.

The cost of war is not over when peace is declared, armies demobilized and the dead repatriated. It has just begun. Long after war bonds have been retired and all the armaments outmoded, the government goes on paying pensions to the veterans and their dependents.

The United States is still paying for wars that happened more than a century ago.

The Veterans Administration paid out $22,440 in pesions last year to the heirs of 36 veterans of the Mexican War, fought in 1836.

The government paid out $757,444 to 710 living veterans and $1,135,869 to heirs and dependents of 2,090 dead veterans of the Indian Wars which started before the Civil War.

* * *

Population Growth.

The census bureau has forecast gains in population and school enrollment in the years to come.

By 1960, the bureau says,, the nation will have 155,745,000 persons, compared with the 1940 census of 131,669,000 and the 1948 estimate of 146,221,000.

The school age population (roughly 5 to 17) is expected to jump faster than the total population between 1947 and 1955.

The rise in grade school enrollmen has been foreshadowed by the relatively large number of births in the early and middle 40's.

The increase in numbers of aged persons (65 and over) is estimated at about 19 per cent between 1947 and 1955.

* * *

New "Best Seller."

The government has issued a new booklet which it thinks is most likely to rival its current best seller "Infant Care."

The new one is "Your Child from Six to Twelve." It completes the Children's Bureau series of five bulletins for parents on child care, from the prenatal period through adolescence.

The booklet on infant care, best known of the series, has passed the 23 million mark.

Abroad

Now It Can Be Told.

There was plenty of friction among the Big Four in deciding how to try the Nazi war criminals at Nuernberg.

But, reports Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson, the chief U. S. representative, the compromise arrived at shows that despite differing judicial systems "our fundamental concepts of fair procedure are not in hopeless conflict."

One difficulty that Jackson mentions is the Russian concept that a court is one of the organs of government power. The Soviet attitude, he says, is that a tribunal is a "weapon in the hands of the ruling class to safeguard its interests."

* * *

Portugal Votes.

Portugal held its first contested presidential election in 22 years last Sunday, despite the opposition candidate's making an 11th-hour attempt to withdraw.

The 79-year-old government candidate won more than 75 per cent of the unofficial returns. The official result will not be disclosed for a week.

The victor is Antonio Oscar de Fragoso Carmona. He has been president since 1926. He had the support of Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, the real political power in the country.

The political opposition was made up of the Democratic and Liberal parties which have struggled along for years under the hard-fisted regime of Salazar.

Quotes

George Gallup, defending public opinion polls: "We should not be assigned the role of experts. We should report the facts and let the people be the experts."

Dwight D. Eisenhower, soldier-educator, in a speech on freedom: "There is a kind of dictatorship that can come through a creeping paralysis of thought, readiness to accept paternalistic measures by the government and surrender of our own responsibilities. I believe it is things such as that we must watch today."

In Short

Passed: By the House, unanimously, a bill to restart the Freedom Train traveling for two more years; the bill now goes to the Senate.

Unveiled: The first statue of Abraham Lincoln on the soil of a former Confederate state, 84 years after the close of the Civil War, at Harrogate, Tenn.

Proposed: By Walter Reuther, CIO United Auto Workers president, that the nation's surplus aircraft plants be converted to the mass production of 20 million prefabricated houses.

Challenged: By the U. S., Russia in the United Nations, to allow an impartial study of American charges that Russians have 8,000,000 to 14,000,000 slave laborers.

Farmer's Diary

Seeing While Walking

By CALVIN A. BYERS

IT IS pleasant to walk along the skid road near the woods, on a spring-like day, when the sun shines against the hill and enjoyable warmth seems to radiate there.

Up the slope, through the orchard, I noticed straight beaten paths all stretching eastward. It seemed as though the wild folks had laid out an allotment all their own.

Curiously I followed one trail far to the east, noticing that small green shoots had been bitten off short. Sometimes the trails crossed at right angles, going directly up and down hill. Tips of outer branches of young apple trees were nipped close. The trunks were left intact, since I had wrapped each with protective paper, and I was surprised at how much girth each tree had gained.

* * *

MOTHER Cottontail, heavy with young, ambles through the mazes of this labyrinth, grazing upon fresh green grass. Dipping into some secret hollow, she disappears into a protected burrow where, no doubt, the rabbit nursery is ready for her spring brood.

Lined with her own fur, pulled from her breast and flanks, this snug haven is the first home of her hairless newborn litter. The dusky hue of her fur gives protection as she moves unseen through the tall grass and brush, unmolested by dogs who do not trail pregnant or nursing mothers.

* * *

WOODY WOODCHUCK has his burrow beneath an old apple stump, with three openings farther uphill, through which he can make an exit in haste if necessary. He, too, frequents the trails of the labyrinthine allotment, when days are warm enough. Mother Woodchuck hibernating now to await the spring, lies safe in the underground chamber. A mound of earth is near the door, on which it is customary for woodchucks to mount and take a look around before venturing far from home.

Later on I shall see Mother Woodchuck followed by five little balls of fur, ambling down the trail toward where the clover is thickest.

Other rodents—jumping mice, whitefooted mice, field mice—know their way about the trails through the grass and brambles. These are innocent of injury toward mankind, since they carry no disease, and belong in a different class from the rats and mice introduced into this country from Europe by the early settlers.

Bird life is plentiful about the trails. Owls find good hunting; quails and pheasants scoot through; hawks and buzzards sometimes swoop down to make a meal. Nesting birds flit from shrub to shrub—robins, mourning doves, jays, and goldfinches.

Dave Boone Says:

WHEN asked what he thought of recent happenings in Hungary Henry Wallace replied, "That's a loaded question." And when asked pointedly if he thought Cardinal Mindszenty was given a fair trial he said, "It is impossible to tell at this distance." That's what I call registering the low temperature of 1949 in the face of something that made most people boil.

* * *

I was under the impression that complete news of the charges and the arrest, the short, swift trial in violation of all our standards of justice and the "confessions" in the orthodox Kremlin routine had reached America extra fast, regardless of the distance.

* * *

Maybe Henry would find the speedy conviction of Protestant ministers and rabbis in the Soviet orbit too far away for him to form any conclusions, too.

* * *

Well, if distance was the test of reactions by the human heart and if pity and sympathy were controlled by considerations of mileage, this would be a pretty cold world. Im sure glad it's warmer than that. And so are countless millions of its inhabitants.
